Arlington Lions, Police Sponsor Safety Tests

The Editor's column

by S. R. PADDOCK

We wish that readers could have heard discussions at the "Freedom of Information" clinics at Springfield when our state officials, the judiciary and the speakers of the senate and house of representatives were in the front line trenches taking what sometimes was a withering fire from radio and newspaper men.

It was a sort of glorified "meet the press," with representatives of big city dailies pressing the trigger of a machine gun, and editors of weekly newspapers firing only occasional shots.

Perhaps the country editors use more finesse in the handling of public officials.

We also think that those state offices, the judiciary present, and others were thoroughly convinced that the "Public has the right to know," and the newspapers think it is their job to do the telling.

We returned home thoroughly convinced that an editor has a responsibility that he owes to the public.

The newspaper men present took the stand that the suppression of news by the government is becoming increasingly more serious.

Secret and executive sessions were severely criticized. Some newspaper men, however, took the stand that there is no reason why a reporter could not sit in at such a meeting and in the interest of public welfare refrain from reporting the matter under discussion. That statement brought forth two replies.

"Perhaps you editors of the weekly press can be trusted. Not so the Chicago newspaper man," was the answer.

The other was given by an editor. He said, "Never. I refuse to sit in on an executive session and stand the chance of having somebody later say, 'You knew all about it, you are as guilty as the office holder.'"

When one Chicago newspaper man gave an oration about the newspaper's fight to get the news and pass it on to the public, one of the questioners asked, "Is the press more interested in selling papers than in serving the public?"

Evaluating the results of the meeting, we would say that the Freedom of Information Clinic, Springfield, was healthy for both the state officials and the press. There should not be antagonism between them and the press.

Governor Stratton and the others in introductory speeches admitted that the press had to be tolerated if the people are to know what is going on.

Governor Stratton told us, "The right of the freedom of the press creates a two-way responsibility on the part of the newspaper. Regardless of the personal opinion of the editor, the publishing of both sides of an issue is his responsibility."

The reply he received was, "The press is eminently fair when given a chance to be fair."

The radio men present pleaded their right to make wire recordings of trials and deliberations of important bodies. They claim the same right of news gathering as is accorded the newsmen.

The newsmen claimed that such a practice would give radio an unfair advantage because it would allow the broadcaster to give direct quotations. The newsmen asked that in fairness they should be given a stenographic copy of proceedings.

In the House of Representatives, where the broadcasters are permitted to hook onto the address system, a red light about the speakers' desk tells when the broadcasting is in progress. That red light works two ways. Too many legislatures take it as a signal for them to prolong their speeches. They evidently want to take advantage of "free time." Sometimes the way to shorten a speech is to turn off the red light.

One panel member said, "Editors are supposed to have mature judgment and handle the news in a mature manner, but they grow a little tired of trying to educate new public officials."

Gov. Stratton in a cross examination was told that the people at home are very much interested in who is supposed to be working for the state and the salary he receives.

The governor said that nobody should be on the state payroll who is not working and asked that any such instance be reported to him immediately.

Local civic organizations should be interested in one statement of the governor. He said that local game wardens and others in state employ are encouraged to talk to the press and to address clubs. They should be particularly helpful to boy and girl scout groups.

That statement may be big news to local people who are in state employ. The head of one state department said, "Public service on the part of an individual carries with it a responsibility other than just cashing that pay check."

We heartily agree with one statement made that day, "The news columns of a paper do not belong to the owner. They belong to the public the same way that the utility service within a state belongs to the people in that state."

The Freedom of Thought clinic was in our estimation worthwhile.

Village Board, Businessmen To Further Discuss 2-Way Streets

A special meeting regarding the return to two-way streets will be held next Wednesday night, at which time the street and parking committee of the Chamber of Commerce will be invited to sit in with members of the Arlington Heights village board to further discuss the matter.

Chief of Police Carl H. Skoog has drawn up a map which designates the "no left turns" and parking stalls that would be needed under the two-way system. He feels the "no left turns" are necessary from a safety standpoint. Parallel parking stalls would also have to replace many of the diagonal stalls in order to allow room for the two-way traffic flow.

THE PROS and cons of the proposed change will be discussed at the meeting. It is the board's desire to have all the businessmen in agreement with the changes before they are made.

The board was informed by John Fulkman of Consoer, Townsend and Associates, that the pump at the new well did not have enough horsepower to pump the capacity of the well, which is approximately 1250 gallons a minute. There has been considerable trouble with the heating elements because of the overload.

It was suggested the village purchase a bigger pump and starting equipment, which would cost approximately $9,400, in order to operate this well to its fullest capacity without repeated mechanical failure. The present pump, which is 200 horsepower, could be moved to the west well, which now has only a 50 horsepower pump, plus a booster pump, and does not give the water it is capable of producing. At present it pumps about 300 gallons per minute, with the new pump it is believed it could double its load.

FULKMAN POINTED out this additional pumping capacity would eventually be needed by the village and it would be advisable to start getting the full use of this well. The board has taken the matter under advisement.

In the future the board of local improvements will meet the first Tuesday of each month, at 7:30 p.m., with the regular village board meeting going into session at 8 p.m. If necessary, special meetings may be called at other times during the month.

A public hearing on the paving of Rockwell st., from State rd. to Evergreen, by special assessment will be held by the board of local improvements June 1, at 7:30 p.m.

A CONTRACT with the Arlington Water Company, which supplies water to Rolling Meadows, has been approved by the board and will be turned over to the company for its signature. Water will be sold to the company at the rate of 65 cents per thousand gallons.

The company hopes to have its own wells in operation within the next month. The agreement will remain in force, however, in event an emergency supply of water is needed. The village, in turn, may also purchase water from the Arlington Water company at the same rate in event it needs water in an emergency.

The second reading of the ordinance which will require the disconnection of all downspouts from the sewer system, was postponed until the village received the report of the findings of the village engineers regarding the sewer problems in Arlington Heights.

Vandals Break Windows, Damage Homes In Area

Police are on the alert to apprehend youths who have been doing considerable damage to homes under construction in the Westgate subdivision in Arlington Heights.

DURING THE past week many windows have been broken, interiors have been damaged by rocks hurled through the windows, and a model home has been squirted with oil by the culprits. Similar damage has been reported in other homes under construction in Arlington Heights.

Chief of Police Carl H. Skoog issued a warning this week that the offenders will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law and parents will have to make good on the hundreds of dollars worth of damage done by the vandals if apprehended. Anyone having any leads as to who might be involved in these acts is asked to contact the police department immediately.

A four wheel tractor used by one of the contractors in the development was found buried in a ditch, apparently another act of vandalism.

THEFT OF 17 pieces of plywood, 4 by 8 feet, by 5/8 inches thick, were reported by Raymond Lutgert, developer of Virginia Terrace, another subdivision in Arlington Heights.

Other thefts during the past week included fender skirts and hub caps off of several autos, three of which were parked at the Arlington Roller Rink.

Twenty-one cases were heard in traffic court Monday night and a total of $242 in fines was collected.

C. M. Behrens & Co. Holds Open House Saturday, May 22

Those who have been admiring the exterior of the new C. M. Behrens building will have a good excuse to see the inside Saturday, May 22, when that firm will hold an open house.

Upon one of the walls will be found a picture of the late C. M. Behrens, who established the business 29 years ago. There has been many changes in Arlington since then and many changes in the firm.

Carl Jr. who was once more interested in flying than selling real estate heads the realty department. Cathie who was only an office girl "way back when," is now boss of the insurance department. Those who call at the building Saturday will have the opportunity to meet the rest of the gang.

Visitors who have a hankering to see the entire building, will find that the second floor is occupied by Dr. Wurtz, Dr. McGill and Dr. Haddy.

Sailor Killed In Crash At Wheeling

A sailor from Glenview naval air station was killed and another injured when the auto in which they were riding went out of control and struck a telephone pole and crashed into the side of the Amvet club house on Milwaukee ave., Wheeling, late Tuesday night.

FRANCIS LEWIS DAVIS of Philadelphia, Pa., died in the crash and Alfred LeRoy Bulson of Milwaukee, who was driving the car, suffered cuts and bruises. The latter is hospitalized at Fort Sheridan.

Wheeling police said the car went into a skid in front of the police station, traveled across the road, striking the pole and coming to a final halt after tearing a 6 foot hole in the side of the Amvet building. An inquest will be held June 17.

Busse Motor Sales To Hold Open House Of New Building

Busse Motor Sales will hold an open house three days in celebration of the completion of the construction and remodeling that has made the Buick agency in Mt. Prospect as modern as the car itself.

The open house starts Friday evening and continues through Saturday and Sunday. Every feature that is to be found in a modern agency has been included in the building, part of which is brand new. The older part has been given a complete interior and exterior "face lifting."

THE REPAIR department is in an addition 97x70 feet with entrances both to the east and west. A large fire door separates it from the other departments. An underground ventilating system takes care of the fumes. An entire new lighting system makes the interior as light as day at all times. In order to better direct the employees the shop foreman now has a private office.

"Our men seem to have an added zest for their work since we moved over," says Wilbert Busse.

The remodeled front gives a good idea to the car-interested public as to what they can expect within the agency. At their left are the offices of the used car department. At the south of the building is the parking lot for the exclusive use of used cars.

BUYERS WHO are thinking about a new car have only to turn to their right where there is a large show room and the new Buicks. Adjoining are the two private offices of Albert and Wilbert Busse. An easy access to customers and employees is the business accounting office. There is also a customer waiting room.

The parts department has been tripled. The lubrication department is in the rear of the old building. Greases and oils are stored in an outside building and enter the garage under pressure. Two car hoists are designed for lubrication work.

The main building is 55x157 and is completely departmentalized for efficiency.

BUSSE MOTOR SALES celebrated its 40th anniversary a year ago. The Busse name is still there, but it is the third generation which has taken over a large part of the responsibility.

Commissioner William Busse, who organized the business back in 1912 will be on hand to greet his old friends. His son, Albert Busse, as president of Busse Motor Sales, may be keeping a watchful eye on the business as a whole, but he leaves to his son, Wilbert, the responsibility of direct management of the operations.

With the Buick cars and the three generations of Busse, that veteran agency occupies an important place in the automotive world of this area.

Circus At Heights Wednesday With Lions Fund To Benefit

It will be birthday time in Arlington Heights on Wednesday, May 26. Thanks to the Club, the Mills Bros. Three Ring Circus, now celebrating its 15th anniversary tour, will bring its stars from 18 nations and trained animals, headed by a 40-ton elephant herd here that day.

The local organization is raising money for their children's educational fund, by presenting the world's largest motorized circus that day for afternoon and evening performances under the big top at 1200 E. Euclid ave. circus grounds.

The circus, founded in 1940, is celebrating its fifteenth anniversary this year by presenting a program which brothers Jack and Jake Mills rate their largest and finest to date.

tures new importations from Asia, tures new importations for Asia, Europe and South America. Major production numbers are headed by "Birthday Spangleland" which sets the program's anniversary theme.

A HOST OF circusdom's all-time favorites have been revived including a cyclonic 10-horse Roman standing race, featuring Miss Jinx Adams and a dashing display of high-jumping horses.

Members have advance tickets, which produce heaviest receipts for the local fund, on sale now. Also, so that no children will miss the huge canvas extravaganza, the Lions club and generous "Circus Daddies" from local business firms will bring needy youngsters from throughout the area to the matinee as guests.

CLOWNS OF TWO continents lend an international flavor to comedy. The 40 tons of performing elephants are headed by Miss Burma ,star of President Eisenhower's inaugural parade, while Jinx Adams and Swedish trainer Sandor Beketow direct three rings of waltzing liberty horses.

The circus will be one day only, Wednesday, May 26, with 2 and 8 p.m. performances at the 1200 E. Euclid ave. Lions club show grounds. Heaviest returns for the fund are derived from advance tickets, which members now have on sale.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Lions Safety Committee has designs on the above trophy which is to be awarded for distinguished service to automotive service.

News Offices Close May 31

Seek National Look Magazine Award For Safety Achievements

The final result of the safety campaign which the Arlington Heights Lions club and the police department have been conducting through the press, the schools and to automobile owners the past two months, comes to a climax this week when safety lanes are opened for the inspection of local automobiles being operated in Arlington Heights.

An added spurt to the campaign is being given by the suggestion of the Look magazine that Arlington enter its campaign in the contest for the Look Award for Distinguished Service to Automotive Safety.

Oscar Johnson, chairman of the Lions safety committee, thinks that Arlington Heights merits the award. He says, "We have done the planning; the campaign on our part has been in progress two months. The results will be known Friday evening when the last car passes through the safety lane.

"We think Arlington Heights has been made safety conscious. We thinks the school children are operating their bikes with greater care. We think the average Arlington Heights motorist is driving with more care. This week we are provididng free safety inspection of cars which will tell us if the average car being driven on the streets of our community is in a safe condition to be driven."

The operation of the safety lane has been made possible by the cooperation of eight garages and service stations which are furnishing at no cost to the Lions of the village a personnel of 24 men.

The first car went through the lane last night. The lane will be open Thursday and Friday evenings, May 20 and 21, from 7:30 to 9:30 at two locations.

Thursday evening safety lanes will be in operation on Dunton ave., between Campbell and Sigwalt sts., and Douglas ave., between Miner and Kensington rd.

FRIDAY EVENING, only the Douglas ave. lane will be open. All cars checked will get a safety check sticker.

Paddock Publications have published during the campaigns many pictures of wrecked cars and reported the death of at least ten persons and serious injuries to others. Rear bumpers on many local cars bear "Courtesy of the Road" stickers. According to Chief Skoog of the local police department, everything possible has been done to awaken the public to the responsibility they owe to their families and others to drive with care. Arlington Heights' entry for the coveted award will include a history of the past two months. The final touch needed will be a long lane of autos going through those safety lanes.

"The Lions and the police have taken the initiative," says Quentin Ford, retiring president of the Lions, "the number of cars which report for the test will tell to what extent our people are sold on automotive safety."

(Special messages on safety, prepared by the Lions and police appear weekly on page one of section four of Paddock Publications.)

Local Accidents Take Toll Of Autos; 2 Injured

Two Arlington Heights residents were hospitalized as a result of a collision on Northwest hwy. and Yale ave., May 13, which involved two cars and a truck.

Injured were William Voss, 19, driver of one car, and Richard Kring, 24, who was a passenger in the Voss auto. Both were taken to Resurrection hospital where they were found to have deep lacerations and bruises.

ACCORDING TO the police report the second vehicle involved was driven by Ernest E. Shulse, 45, of 938 N. Kennicott. He told police he was driving east on Northwest hwy. in the inner lane about 15-20 miles an hour, when the Voss car, also traveling the same direction in the inner lane, struck his auto in the rear. Following the impact the Voss auto glanced off to the left striking a truck driven by William Carrol Crank of Chicago, which was traveling west in the outer lane. The truck left the road, crossed a sidewalk and stopped in a pile of dirt 100 feet from the impact.

Police estimated Voss was traveling about 50 miles per hour and skidded 34 feet before hitting the Shulse auto.

A two car collision at Rand and State rds. Monday evening resulted in one totally wrecked car and another damaged to the extent of $500 or $600. Drivers of the cars were Henry Floot, RFD, Mount Prospect, who was booked by the State highway police for an improper turn, and Robert A. Schmidt of Twin Lakes, Wis. Neither was seriously injured.

MRS. EDWIN GUENTHER, 445 S. Vail, wife of police officer Edwin Guenther of the Arlington Heights police department, escaped serious injury Wednesday morning, when the auto she was driving turned over on its top following a collision at Vail and Sigwalt aves.

According to the police report Mrs. Guenther was traveling north on Vail when her car was struck on the right rear fender by another auto driven by Alice Helen Farquhar, 2503 W. Sigwalt, Rolling Meadows. The impact flipped the Guenther car over on its front end, facing south, and lying on its top.

The entire front end of the Farquhar auto was damaged and the Guenther auto was a total wreck.

While engaged in a drill program Tuesday night the Arlington Heights fire department received a call to the Dexter home at 1628 Brown st., and was able to answer the call without sounding the siren. A fire had started in a second floor closet and the entire upstairs suffered smoke damage.

E. H. Christen New Lions Club President

E. H. Christen was elected president of Arlington Heights Lions club Tuesday evening. Other officers elected were J. A. Johnson, vice president; F. C. Blohm, 2nd vice president; T. H. Hildebrand, 3rd vice president; E. W. Crane, secretary; E. B. Stine, treasurer; W. H. Poole, G. N. Tuttle, directors; J. S. Flaherty, H. K. Hackbarth, lion tamers; V. H. Beisler, C. Horcher, O. C. Johnson, W. Tinsley, tail twisters.

Capt. Frank M. Andrews of the Evanston police department and member of Evanston Lions club, gave an interesting talk on chemical tests of alcohol intoxication of the drinking driver which included a very enlightening demonstration on the use of the Hager Drunk-o-meter.

The police department of Arlington Heights uses this instrument in testing intoxicated drivers.

Needs Two Heads

R. J. Anderson, of Kimball Hill Associates said that after the last issue of Paddock Publications hit the street, he received at least 100 calls in answer to a classified advertisement therein. "I felt I needed two heads and four telephones to keep up with the pace," says Anderson.

Meeting Friday On Proposed Elk Grove School Addition

Elk Grove school district 59 will hold an open meeting at 8 p.m. Friday at the school to explain to all residents the proposed building addition. A referendum on this $95,000 issue will be held June 5 from 12 to 7 p.m. at the school.

Dan Bryant, of Bryant and Walchi, has been selected as architect by the board of education. He will go over all details of construction and costs and be available for questioning. Board of education members and their attorney, Paul Collins, will also take part in the presentation.

Dennis Malcolmson, principal, will present the current enrollment picture and lack of classroom space and will project it ahead a few years on the basis of past growth.

THE RECENTLY appointed principal for next year, Ernest Cavallo, will be introduced to the group and will take part in the discussion.

A firm construction bid has already been established so the board knows exactly what it is getting for a specified figure.

This construction cost compares favorably with all other lower school construction costs in this area. The addition is purposely built at very minimum cost to provide plenty of rooms for the next few years' expansion. Yet, at the same time it is fireproof, substantial, attractive in its simplicity and meets the educational needs of children. The plans have already been approved by Noble Puffer, county superintendent of schools.

IT WILL BE interesting for residents to learn why the addition is to be placed where planned, why the rooms will extend outward from the hall, how much it costs to equip it with standard school furniture, what provisions are made for storage, if extra washrooms are planned, why a gymnasium can't be considered at this time, how the rooms will be used, if a basement is planned, why it is cheaper and better to build schools on one floor, when it will be finished and many other such questions as arise in people's minds. These and other questions will be answered at the meeting. "This is the one golden opportunity," according to the principal, "to seek information about the school and its needs. No matter what one thinks now, he will find this a most profitable meeting to discover true facts. This school belongs to its community — let the residents be represented en masse on this important occasion." (ACMD

Vote On $40,000 Bond Issue For Wilson School Saturday

A $40,000 bond issue will be voted on at the Wilson school by residents of District No. 24 Saturday, May 22. The polls will open at noon and close at 7 p.m .

The bond issue is for two additional class rooms, two wash rooms and utility room. It is hoped that the new class rooms will be sufficient to take care of the influx of students from Virginia Terrace, and the wash rooms and utility room will be large enough to accommodate a future addition.

The sketch shown, drawn by architect Robert Stauber, gives the general layout and size of the proposed addition. The exterior walls will be face brick and concrete block on the inside. Floors will be concrete with asphalt tile covering. Ceilings will be accoustical tile and the windows architectural projected providing excellent ventilation. Lighting will be semi-indirect, as in the last addition built, and the roof will have overhanging eaves to correspond with the present building. The heating system will be a continuation of the present one.

THE SCHOOL board of education has accepted the escrow agreement offered by the Lutgert Construction Co., builders of the new subdivision in District No. 24, namely Virginia Terrace, and the sum of $25,400 has been placed in escrow in the bank pending passage of the bond issue.

The agreement states the money is to be used for teachers' salaries and school maintenance and will be released to Roland Franzen, treasurer of Wheeling township schools, for District 24, when bids are let and construction of the addition has actually begun. The agreement will be null and void if the building has not started by February 1, 1955. In other words, if the bond issue fails, and no building has been started by that date, the district would lose the $25,400 offered by Lutgert Construction Co.

THE IMPORTANCE of voting for this bond issue cannot be too firmly stressed. The district is obligated to teach the children entering from Virginia Terrace and with the limited space in the present building, it would be necessary to run shifts, have double the expense for teachers as each shift would have a different teacher, and no money forthcoming from Virginia Terrace for educational purposes for two years. This would necessitate a considerable raise in the educational tax to compensate for the extra expense.

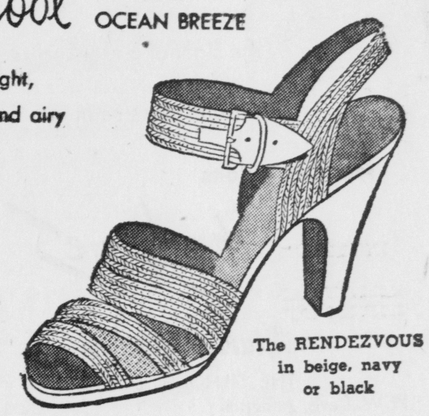

Any one of the seven board members will welcome phone calls from those who might have questions in regard to this important issue. Three of them are named below, with phone numbers: Donald Nygren, CL. 3-1882; Robert Huebner, CL. 3-2856 and Dorothy Rice, CL. 3-9168. Those in need of transportation are asked to call one of the above named board members, and arrangements will be made. (ACP

Arlington Heights Toastmasters Elect New Officers

Arlington Heights Toastmasters club has recently elected new officers to start its third year of activity. The club is a chapter of Toastmasters International, organized in 1930 for men interested in developing ability in public speaking and expressing ideas.

Club officers for the coming term are: Sterling L. Ross, president; Arthur H. Davis, vice president; Gaylord M. Watland, second vice president; Wendell L. Prunty, secretary; William J. Stull, treasurer; Roger E. Kellogg, deputy governor and John H. McComb, sergeant at arms.

Arlington Heights club meets every other Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the South school cafeteria. Members participate in planned and impromptu talks, giving each other suggestions for improvement. The name "Toastmaster" is descriptive of the assignment taken in turn in serving as master of ceremonies for the evening. Through business programs and rotating committee positions, experience is given in parlimentary procedure and group organization.

Visitors are always welcome and further information about the club will be furnished by Art Davis, Clearbrook 3-6281. The next meeting will be held May 26.

There are now over 1,500 chapters of Toastmasters International in English speaking countries. The majority are in the United States, and six are active in Chicago's north and northwest suburbs. Russell V. Puzey, Mount Prospect, is currently president of the international organization. Many members have found that practice in Toastmasters has been valuable both in talking before business and social groups and in listening critically to professional and political speakers.

Friends Of Orphans To Meet Tuesday

Junior Friends of Orphans will hold its regular meeting Tuesday, at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Robert S. Woodbridge, 301 Vail, Arlington Heights. Tea will be served following the business meeting.

Ralph S. Schroeder, superintendent of the Norweigan Lutheran Children's home Park Ridge, appeared at a recent meeting held at the home of Mrs. John F. Williams, Glenview to give a bit of the history and the present operations of the institution after which he held open discussion. Members were very much inspired for the continuation of the work they have been doing in the home by Mr. Schroeder's talk.

Discussion Tuesday will be on investigating another home for the group to work with, in addition to the two already being helped by the young women.

Use Leaves And Stalks To Improve Your Garden Tilth

This years "garden trash" can help you get higher yields and better vegetables next year. When you start your garden start a compost pile at the same time.

B. L. Weaver, vegetable specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says that a compost pile is both a convenient way to get rid of crop residues and a good source of organic fertilizer.

Except where drainage is a problem, pits are more desirable than surface piles. A shady corner or a spot back of shrubs is an ideal location. Use a frame of rough lumber with a division through the center to separate new from usuable compost. You need a frame of about 36 square feet, 18 inches deep.

SAVE THE DIRT you dig out to weigh down the compost materials and to help hold the moisture. You may need to water your compost pile off and on during dry weather. Keep the surface level to help get even water distribution.

Weaver says you can speed up rotting and add ferility if you add lime and fertilizer to the compost.

USE FERTILIZER and lime either at a ratio of 25 pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer and 10 pounds of finely ground limestone or at a ratio of 12 pounds of sulphate of ammonia, 6 pounds of superphosphate, 5 pounds of muriate of potash and 10 pounds of finely ground limestone.

Add about 1 pound of either mixture to each 10 pounds of dry refuse. If you are adding green material to your compost use only ¼ pound to each 10 pounds.

Mix the compost material from time to time to speed up decay and to give it a more uniform texture, Weaver suggests.

How to Use a Wrench

THE National Safety Council offers the following instructions for the safe and correct use of wrenches:

1. Use wrenches that are the right type and size for the job. Never use a piece of pipe on the handle to get more leverage.

WRENCHES

2. Use only wrenches having jaws in good condition; keep pipe wrench jaws sharp and clean.
3. Never use a shim to make the wrong size wrench fit the nut.
4. Do not use a wrench as a hammer. Such use weakens it.
5. Always place the wrench on the nut so that the pull on the handle tends to force the jaws further onto the nut.
6. Pulling on a wrench is safer than pushing. If you must push, keep your knuckles in the clear.
7. Avoid falls; see that your footing is good before you pull.

Receive Appointments

Two local women have received appointments in the Northwest Suburban branch of the American Association of University Women. Mrs. C. R. Ackley, Mount Prospect, has been appointed program chairman, and Mrs. L. G. Westermeier, Prospect Heights, status of women chairman.

The group is holding its annual dinner meeting tonight, May 20, at Martin's Episcopal church, Des Plaines, and will feature an address by the state president, Mrs. Alton G. Hall. Guests will include Dr. Helen Econonomideau of Greece and Miss Jean Wyte of Australia.

Kamera Korner

Has it ever occurred to you that color photography puts it up to you to light and expose your picture properly? No correcting bad guesses in the darkroom as one can sometimes do with black and white. Actually, according to Don Mohler, General Electric photographic specialist, it's just as easy to properly light and expose color films as with black and white shot.

Take lighting, particularly flash or floodlighting which is controllable. To get clear pictures, follow two simple rules: (1) be sure light is right color; (2) keep it flat-flood scene with general illumination. One way is to use your lamps right at camera, then expose correctly. This will give you an accurate record of what the eye sees.

Once you have achieved enough light to guarantee a record of the scene, try another light to show shape, color, texture and depth. Place this modeling light close to the subject, in a high position and away from the camera. If the picture background is an interesting one, light it separately with another lamp.

Judy Ahmer Wins National Art Exhibit Award Poster

Judy Ahmer, a sophomore at Arlington Heights high school, won a national award in poster design, according to the announcement released May 8 by the National High School Art Exhibit.

The exhibit, sponsored by Scholastic Magazines, opened on that date at Carnegie Institute, in Pittsburgh, and will continue through May 31. It marks the climax of the 1954 Scholastic Art Awards program, which includes the 38 regional exhibitions held earlier this year.

Seven Arlington Heights students won awards in the Evanston regional, and their work was sent to Pittsburgh for national judging by a group of 32 art experts and educators.

Throughout the country, students submitted some 165,000 entries for Scholastic Art Awards this year. About 32,000 won places in the regional exhibitions, and 1,472 awards were given in the national show. Twenty-seven classifications were included in the show, covering the fields of pictorial art, graphic art, commerical art, design, sculpture, ceramics, and crafts.

Only Bldg. Left Untouched By 1895 Libertyville Fire Is Destroyed

Flames have gutted the only building not destroyed in the great Libertyville fire of 1895 when the business district was wiped out.

That was the year H. C. Paddock was "burned out" of Libertyville. He moved to Arlington Heights where he started Paddock Publications.

Destroyed in the conflagration was the Petranek Pharmacy, whose owner Louis J. Petranek estimated damage to his store fixtures and merchandise at $100,000.

Severely damaged were the Patricia Lee Photographic Studio and Mooney's Fur Shop, owned by Leroy C. Mooney who, with his wife and 14-year-old son Jack, escaped their burning, smoke-filled apartment on the second floor of the building.

Volunteers Called For Girl Scout Camp Clean Up

CIRCLING THE TOWN

BY PHYLLIS KNIGHT

Arlington Heights PTA is hoping local people will make house-cleaning time "Bundle Time" in their homes. Today, Thursday, and Friday school children are taking outgrown clothing to their schools as part of the annual Bundle day drive.

All clothing contributed will be sent to the Save the Children Federation in New York City. It is distributed from there to the places in the world where it is needed most.

Among the most needed items are baby clothes, low-heeled shoes for adults and all types of children's shoes, blankets and children's clothing. Everything should be clean and in good condition.

Mrs. E. J. Roble, welfare chairman of the PTA, is drive chairman, and says that the drive presents a double opportunity — to help the less fortunate of the world, and to help clean out one's own closets and attics.

Well-Trained

Mrs. Clarence Hendrickson, new president of the Arlington Heights Woman's club, can certainly be considered well-qualified for the job. Aside from the numerous positions she has already held in the Woman's club —including vice president — she has always been active in civic affairs.

As the club, too, plays a major role in community activities, her training should be of considerable aid in leading the group to continued success.

A recent accomplishment of the club has been in the state scrapbook contest when the Arlington club's book, compiled this year by Mrs. R. LaCroix, was awarded first place. This was the first time Arlington had won a state first award in the scrapbook competition.

And Now Golf

No sooner is the bowling season over, it seems, than the golf season begins. Leagues are springing up all over the area, with divisions to fit all degrees of golfing skill.

There are leagues of more or less experts, those with lower handicaps who compete to join the special group. There are men's leagues and women's leagues and mixed leagues. There are morning leagues and evening leagues, even week end groups.

There are those sponsored by church and civic groups and those whose only apparent designation is that one wants to play "Tuesday mornings" or some other such time.

In short, with spring weather at last upon those who frequented the bowling lanes all winter can doubtless be found on the golf courses now.

Memorial Fund

Few tragic cases have evoked such public sympathy as the recent death of the Rev. Wesley Bryngelson of the Mount Prospect Community Presbyterian church. The story of his polio-victim wife and young daughter, whose courage in the face of such a situation is so fine, has wrung the hearts of many in the area.

Not only are they sympathetic, they are doing something about it. The Chicago Presbytery board of pensions will match dollar for dollar all contributions of the general public, and the contributions are many. The aim of those who are hoping to provide for Mrs. Bryngelson and her daughter is for donations of $15,000 from the public. They feel that the $30,000 thus realized will provide for the family for some years to come.

Those who wish to donate may send contributions to the Bryngelson Memorial fund at the Mount Prospect State bank.

PTA Committee Seeks Housing For Grade School Teachers

Again the Arlington Heights PTA will help find housing accommodations for teachers. The housing committee, consisting of one hundred PTA members, will again survey the area of the district in which they live and report all rental possibilities of houses or apartments. Mrs. Edward Smith, 221 Wilshire Lane, is chairman of this committee.

The reports of this committee, and of other helpful citizens of the community, were greatly appreciated during the past year The need seems to be greater than ever this year. Increased enrollments require fifteen additional teachers. These, plus housing needs of teachers re-employed for District 25, present he problem of locating between fifteen and twenty apartments or houses between now and September 1.

The committee requests the help of all other citizens of the community. They suggest that all leads on possible apartment or house rentals be reported by telephone to the committee member in their area of the village. If this member is not known, it is urged that the lead be reported to the office of the Superintendent of Schools, Cl 3-6100.

Law Requires 14 Days Confinement At Vets For Dogs That Bite

Several more dog bite cases were reported to the Arlington Heights police department this week. All owners have been notified to take their dogs to a veterinarian and keep them under observation for 14 days. A report as to the state of the dog's health must be turned in to the police department at the end of that time.

Chief of Police Carl H. Skoog said this week all dogs who have bitten anyone must be confined to an animal hospital under a veterinarian's care during the 14 day observation period to determine whether or not the dog has rabies.

Some residents misinterpreted an article in last week's paper regarding dogs being innoculated for rabies by June 1. It in no way meant to indicate dogs could run at large if they had been inoculated. The village ordinance requires all dogs to be kept on one's own premises, unless walked on a leash. All dogs in the village must have rabies shots before a license will be issued.

The village has re-engaged the dog catchers and they began work May 17.

TV NEWS

By Don Hager

In the early days of television the western film was the mainstay of the video - waves. There was a great backlog of cowboy films available, and TV brought a new popularity to such stars as Gene Autry, Roy Rogers and William Boyd (Hopalong Cassidy).

A survey of today's most popular filmed programs on TV shows that the western film is still more than holding its own. Whether you check the lists from Dayton, Ohio, New Orleans or Seattle, you'll find such favorites as Kit Carson, Annie Oakley, Wild Bill Hickok, the Cisco Kid, "Death Valley Days," and of course Gene Autry, Roy Rogers et al, holding their places among the top ten most popular programs. Rogers, for instance, has just been signed for another 3 years by his sponsor . . . at about $3,000,000 in total costs for production and TV time on 54 stations . . . this cost being for just one year!

Aside from "Dragnet," also known as "Badge 714" in the earlier series now being re-run, one of the most popular new filmed series is "I Led Three Lives," starring Richard Carlson, which is leading the rating lists in many cities. These two are exceptions in the "crime hunt" category, for westerns are holding their watchers much better than the mystery shows.

"See You In Washington"

Illinois First

In the month of February, Illinois went into first place in dollar sales of E and H Bonds and is continuing as the number one state by surpassing all others again in March. $46,963,367 in bond purchases for last month put Illinois out front for the first quarter of this year and, with 9.7% of national sales made in this state during March and 29.5% of our annual goal achieved in the first three months, a prediction of success in making our quota again this year does not seem unduly optimistic even at this early date.

Meet Arlington Heights Businessmen

LAVERNE LEVINE

Laverne Levine, who established the Arlington School of Music in 1936 has only one hobby—music. He has devoted a lot of time to it. He has studied at the American School of Music, and under a number of foremost teachers. He has taken what could be called extra-curricular studies in psychology and philosophy, which are today recognized as an aid to a teacher of music.

When he started his music career, classical interpretation was the thing. He has met changing conditions and today devotes a greater part of his time to the more popular trend, in specializing on the accordion as well as the piano.

His first teacher was Roscoe Reed, one of the pioneer music teachers in Arlington Heights. Laverne has gone a long way in music since then, but he is not a musical highbroy. He is a common fellow and it was when he was sitting in at the breakfast club that the newspaper photographer caught him off his guard.

J. B. ROBERTS

J. B. Roberts is no stranger to the businessmen who congregate at the breakfast club at Piper's every morning. He has nothing to sell to Arlington Heights people, except good will, which he does very well.

He is factory manager of the Emerol Manufacturing Co., a firm whose home office is in New York. The firm manufactures a top cylinder lubricant that is so effective when used in autos that Robert's friend, Forrest Davis, says that his car which uses the lubricant, can be driven four thousand miles without an oil change.

Roberts is only manufacturing the lubricant, but he says that Davis' claim is authentic. The Arlington Heights plant serves the entire middle west as far south as the gulf.

Mr. Roberts is still a resident of Chicago but has not given up hope that some day he will become an Arlington Heights resident in reality as well as in name.

Village Theatre Elects New Officers

Village Theatre, which meets the second Thursday of each month, will not meet during June, July and August. The new officers will take over at the September meeting. The group plans to hold one or two picnics during the summer, the dates to be announced later.

Local organizations wishing to use the group's "Talent Bank" for their programs are invited to call Mrs. Malcolmson at Clearbrook 3-3372.

Individuality is everywhere to be spared and respected as the root of everything good.

Claudette Malburg Is Bride Of John O'Hearn

White snapdragons and gladioli decorated St. James Catholic church for the 10 o'clock wedding of Claudette E. Malburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Malburg, 1502 Kensington rd., Arlington Heights, and John C. O'Hearn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. O'Hearn, 829 N. Dunton ave., Saturday, May 8.

Rev. Joachim Daleiden, O.F.M. officiated at the double-ring ceremony, assisted by Rev. George Stier and Rev. Robert Reicher. Soloists were Patty Lou nad Nancy Morris, accompanied at the organ by Sister Amabilia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white embroidered organdy fashioned with a princess bodice, short sleeves and a ruffled tiered skirt and train. She wore matching long organdy gloves and a finger tip veil held in place with a pearl encrusted headpiece. Her bridal bouquet was a shower of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Favorites for Flavor

By LOIS SEILER

If you are in search of a new idea for a quick yet tasty meal, today's recipe will do the trick.

It takes just minutes to prepare Crab Cakes, the recipe for which is being shared with us by Mrs. R. G. Emmett of 741 S. Highland, Arlington Heights.

The cakes are an appealing combination of crabmeat (canned or frozen), mayonnaise, eggs and cracker crumbs, with Worcestershire sauce, red pepper and salt as seasonings.

All you do is mix the ingredients together, form into cakes and brown them. They are served with tartar sauce.

Mrs. Emmett usually accompanies the cakes with French fried potatoes, a tossed salad and rolls. They are excellent to serve at luncheon or dinner.

Crab Cakes

1 lb. crabmeat
2 heaping tbls. mayonnaise
2 eggs, beaten lightly
½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
½ tsp. red pepper
¼ tsp. salt
20 soda crackers, broken into crumbs

Mix all of the ingredients together, adding the cracker crumbs last. Form into small cakes and brown on both sides. Serve with tartar sauce. Serves 4 to 6.

News of Elk Grove

Hear Ye! Hear Ye!

A meeting for all citizens of the Elk Grove school district will be held tomorrow, Friday, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. The purpose of the meeting is to make known in detail plans for a building addition to be voted upon June 5. A full explanation, will be given by Dan Bryant, the architect selected by the board of education; members of the board, and Principal Dennis Malcolmson.

This occasion will also be an opportunity to meet the new principal for next year, Ernest Cavallo. This will be his first introduction to the Elk Grove public since illness prevented him from attending the Star Festival.

Festival of Stars

Last Friday's Star festival was a smoothly run, well managed evening of fun and entertainment. The school's pupils were featured in the sixth grade square dance performance, Darlene Wilder's and Mickey Adams' duet, Dotty Schulze's organ selections, the famed Belwyn Trio of seventh graders. Also enjoyed were the acts involving singing, dancing, music, and pantomime. Liberace created quite a sensation when she played at her "giant" sized piano. The teachers with the addition of substitute Chuck Lemke dug up a corny skit much to the amusement of their pupils. Mrs. Laird, school secretary, was one of the lucky ones she took a clock. The refreshments were mighty tasty, and the decorations were out of this world. Mothers' club president Mrs. Richard Adams proved to be quite a popular crooner in leading the community singing. All in all, it was one fine party.

Defeat Avenged

Last Thursday's softball game with Arlington Airport school found Elk Grove on the high end of the score this time, winning 13-11. The luck of the home grounds seems to carry weight in both of these closely contested games.

Little Seven Meet

Saturday morning Elk Grove's track finalists will compete in the Little Seven conference meet on the Arlington Heights high school track starting at 9 a.m. Events scheduled for this meet include two dashes, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, shot put, and relay. Loan of an eight pound shot from the high school has given the muscle men a real workout this week.

Strike up the Band

On May 24 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium Louis Dochterman's advanced and intermediate bands will be playing a concert for all comers. These two groups combine 24 musicians who can really put out the tunes. The advanced band has already played concerts at Orchard Place school, Maple school, Schaumburg school, Forest View school and Arlington Airport school. The intermediate band also accompanied those veteran members to the last three schools. Anyone who wants to hear a wide variety, quantity, and quality of fine music should make it a point to attend the concert Monday.

As an exchange program the Orchard Place school band will play a concert today, Thursday at Elk Grove.

Register Neophytes

May 24 will be registration for all next fall's first graders. Hours are 9:30 to 11:30 and 7 to 8 p.m., with the former time preferred. Birth certificates or baptismal records will be necessary to prove age. A child must be six before December 1 to be eligible.

Snappy Hobbies

Third graders in Mrs. Snap's room were very proud of their fine exhibiti of hobbies. They really covered all fields and interests. They were attractively displayed and identified.

Field Trip Season

There will be five or six different field trips scheduled for this week and next week. Places to be visited are Field Museum, Aquarium, Historical museum, Brookfield Zoo, forest preserve, Indian Boundary Park, Midway airport, and Cracker Jack factory. On each room's first field trip the pupils are required to pay 35c and the board of education pays the difference to make up the bus charge. Usually the board's share runs about twice as much as the pupil's share. Board of education is to be commended in such financing arrangements in order that everyone can get the benefit of these trips without too large an expenditure.

Graduation Speaker

Superintendent LeRoy Knoeppel of Arlington Heights high school will address this year's graduating class of 19 members.

Nancy Brown Scores Second Highest in State French Contest

Nancy Brown, a senior at Arlington Heights high school, had the second highest score in the French 2 section of the state French contest, and received the Moliere medal and a certificate of proficiency from M. Pierre Donzelot, cultural attache, of the French Embassy.

The medal and certificate were presented to her by her French instructor, Clifford Gallant, during an assembly last week.

The national French contest, which is sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of French, begins with contests in the schools. Winning papers in each classification are entered in the state competition, and state winners are entered in the national contest. The tests are considered difficult by all concerned, but no awards are given if the highest score is below 85 per cent.

John McLaughry won the local competition in French 3, and was highest in the state, excluding Chicago, but his score was below the minimum for an award.

Emily Sherrill, a sophomore, represented the school in the French 1 section and placed seventh.

Feehanville School

There was much information given and many questions asked and answered at the meeting at the school house last week Wednesday. Kenneth Meyer, lawyer, explained the long delay on the land acquisition and assured us everything is now taken care of. Charles Lauer, insurance, gave us the picture from his angle, and it was easily understood how low premium rates mean not only a saving in money over a period of years, but possibly a saving of lives, as the safer the building, the lower the insurance rates. Charles Klop, architect, was present with the plans, and everybody present had an opportunity to look them over.

Youth Organizations

Intermediate Girl Scout troop had a cook-out in the forest preserves last week and a hike through the woods. Mrs. Hjalmar Sandquist, leader, and Mrs. Harold Broberg, who has just finished her leadership training, were in charge of the troop. Work patrols were arranged by way of caper charts, and a good time was had by all.

Feehanville adult scouts will be attending a cook-out this Thursday night, too, at the Girl Scout House. That is the last neighborhood meeting of the season. North school is in charge of refreshments. Part of the program will be an investiture ceremony, and our two new leaders, Mrs. Harold Broberg and Mrs. Kenneth Karnuth, will be invested.

There is a ball game scheduled this coming Friday at 6:30 at Dam No. 2. It will be the Brigadiers and the Bensenville Church Men's team. It will not be an official league game but should be interesting as the Bensenville team is a tough one to beat.

Fourteen members of the Stockade had an extra treat added to their outing last Saturday. They were scheduled to go to the Museum of Science and Industry, but before they went to the museum they were taken over to Lake Michigan where Rudolph Gerstung gave them a ride in his motor boat. Carl Bischoff and Bernard Shimmin were the adults in charge, and Bobby Martin, Bobby Levine and John Hanson were assistants. After the boat ride, the lads were taken to the Museum to see the wonders of modern science. Lunch was eaten in the picnic room, and the lads arrived home about 5 o'clock.

Mothers' and daughters' tea last Saturday was a great success with a very interesting program. Judy and Marlene Olson played several songs on their accordians. Miss Ruth Pierson, who had just returned home from her vacation in Mexico, gave a warm welcoming speech. Ruth and Bonnie Levine sang a duet. Mrs. Betty Shimmin gave a reading. Dottie Mae Levine said a comical little poem. The Pioneer girls sang a song. The Pilgrim girls said an accrostic. Bonnie and Ruth Levine gave a clever little skit. Mrs. Clarence Erickson gave the message, and Mary Oprisa of the lovely golden voice sang two solos. Delicious fruit salad and angel food cake were served. It was very well planned, everything worked out beautifully and was very much enjoyed by all present.

Pioneer girls at their Tuesday meeting made colorful little candy corsages. These were used as favors at the Mothers' and Daughters' tea.

PTA

There is a PTA—sponsored educational program on the radio that would be worth listening to. This is every Wednesday at 12:45, station W.N.M.P., 1590 on your dial.

Mrs. Elizabeth Flink, president; Mrs. Dorothy Karnuth, vice-president, and Miss Idyl Nipper, membership chairman, attended a presidents' meeting in Wilmette last Monday. It was the area meeting for District 21. Meeting started at 9:30 in the morning and ended at 3 o'clock. It was concerned primarily with instructions to new presidents on parliamentary proceedings and organization.

Fun Fair

This coming Saturday is the day long awaited by all the children in our district—the hectic, hilarious, fun-filled Fun Fair! All children invited! All parents invited! Uncles and Aunts invited! Fun for all! Not even the toddlers have been forgotten as a large sandbox is being furnished to keep them happy while Mom and Pop wander around enjoying themselves. Adult supervision of the toddlers in the sand box will keep them safe.

There will be puzzle games—for instance, can you guess how many jelly beans in a jar? If you think you can, try it, as there's an Ansco camera for a prize.

Have you been polishing up your horseshoe playing lately? Come and try out against other experts; test your skill.

How's that mighty right arm on pounding nails? Compete against others in driving a nail into a log.

How accurately can you toss a bean bag? Or a ring over a cane? And for the little amateur fishermen who always find the big one gets away—here's a chance to catch something with every dip of the fishing pole. Then there's the ever-popular, very musical cake walk. And the fascinating White Elephant booth. The fancy work booth with the lovely hand-worked pieces. And the ponies! Nothing more need be said about the ponies, the youngsters say it all.

For the decorator-minded—we are going to accept sealed bids on lovely pale-green, chrome-spun draperies, eight panels which will fit a draw rod 9 ft. wide, 96 inches long. It was made to fit a window 100 inches wide, and it will work out very nicely on the average picture window and extend beyond the window a little. The retail value of these draperies is $75—a sealed auction will be held and the highest bidder wins, whether it is five dollars or a hundred and five.

There is so much more planned. Food will be served on the premises, so you need not even go home for supper. Give yourselves a real holiday in every sense of the word. Make this your watchword this week—"See you at the Fun fair!"

At a court of honor held May 12, Carl H. Klehm Jr. and Thomas T. Stephan received the highest award given by the church to Boy Scouts. The medal and citation were presented to the scouts by the troop committee and pastor of troop 37. Pictured above, left to right, are Scoutmaster Ernest Tagge, Rev. Luther V. Stephan, Thomas Stephan, Mrs. L. V. Stephan, Carl Klehm Jr. and Carl Klehm Sr.

Blackhawk District Scouts To Hold Camporee May 21-23

Three hundred boy scouts, explorer scouts and their adult leaders will camp together at Deer Grove woods on Dundee Road the week end of May 21, 22, 23 in the annual spring camporee of Blackhawk district, Northwest suburban council, Boy Scouts of America.

Robert Warkentien, Mount Prospect, camping and activities chairman for Blackhawk district is director of the camporee. Arthur Strong, Mount Prospect, Health and safety chairman for Blackhawk district, will be in charge of health and cleanliness inspections of troop and post campsites. Great emphasis will be placed on proper and safe and sanitary camping for this event according to Strong and Warkentien.

THE SCOUTS from Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, and Arlington Heights will be camped by patrols, groups of four to eight boys within their scout troops. All activities will be carried on by patrols. Awards for quality participation will be awarded to patrols.

That the camporee is to be a scout activity has been made evident by Warkentien, who has instructed leaders they are to do no cooking or work around the unit sites, and to let the scouts run their own program.

Scout and explorer scout parents are invited to the Saturday evening campfire of songs, stunts, and ceremony which will be getting underway at 7:30. In addition to boy scouts and explorer scouts and their parents, Lion cub scouts and their parents are invited to the campfire in order they may see what is ahead of them when they enter Boy Scouting.

MUCH DISCUSSION has been made regarding the "mystery event" on the Saturday afternoon "adventure trail". Warentien refuses to tell anyone what the event will be, but Scouts are to come prepared for anything-bringing with them, rope, matches, compass, pencil and paper.

The camporee program, planned by unit leaders of Blackhawk district will get underway officially Saturday morning with the flag raising ceremony, and will close officially at 3:00 Sunday afternoon with the awarding of camporee patches and participation ribbons.

Scouts Receive Church Award At Court Of Honor

Carl H. Klehm Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Klehm and Thomas T. Stephan, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Luther V. Stephan, received the highest award given by the church to boy scouts at a court of honor held May 22.

The medal and citation was presented to the boys at the court, held for troop 37 at St. Peter Lutheran church, by the troop committee and pastor. The church award, inscribed with the Latin words, "Pro Deo Et Patria," requires that the winner render 150 hours of service to the church and community without remuneration, pass an examination on Christian doctrine, church liturgy, altar appointments and the church year and complete a special project by hand. Floyd Burns Jr. was the recipient of this award 3 years ago.

Thirteen other scouts received promotions at this same court of honor and were pinned by their parents. Advanced to rank of first class scout were Jim Timmermann, Tom Landmeier and Luke Stephan; to the rank of second class scout were Walter Loy, Tom Vidrick, Roy Klehm, Charles Rush, Allan Themer and Bobby Stephan. Advanced to the rank of tenderfoot were Dennis Hartman, Edward Koelper, Douglas Berngen and Paul Gehrke.

Preliminary plans were made at the meeting for the formation of a cub pack to be sponsored by St. Peter Men's club. Twenty five boys are expected to respond to the first pack meeting and separate into various dens.

Ernest Tagge is scoutmaster of troop 37 and Walter Landmeier is assistant scoutmaster. Serving as committee members are Raymond Tagtmeier, chairman, Edward Timmermann, Stanley Anderson and Carl Klehm with Rev. Stephan as chaplain.

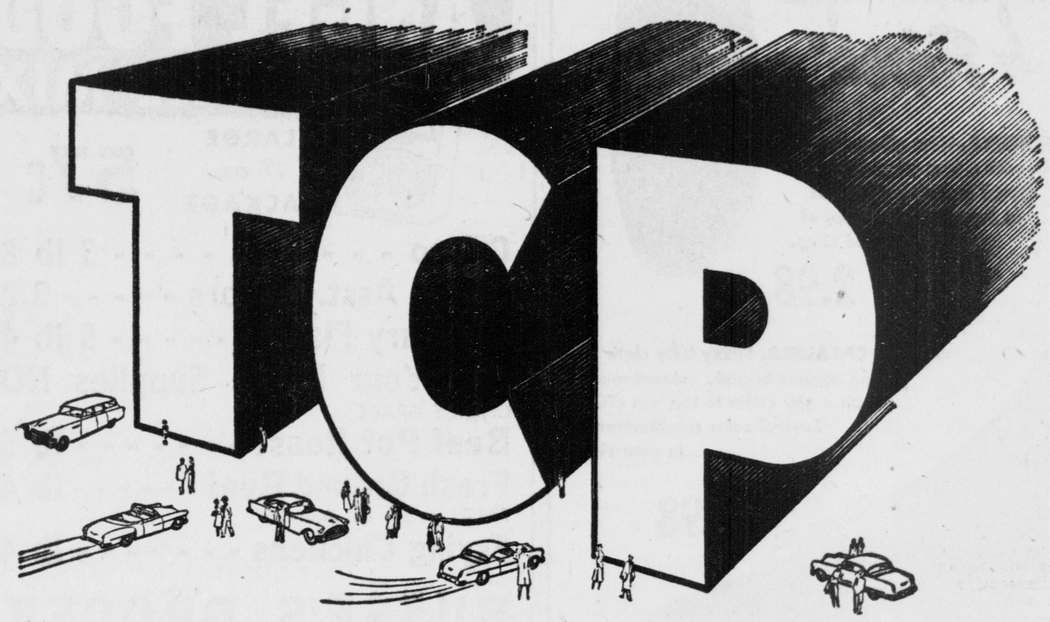

Look To Lights

These nights street lights and not stars are most likely to determine whether you'll be saved from a traffic accident, according to the national street and traffic safety lighting bureau.

Despite the claims of astrologers, the lights you drive under are far more important than the star you were born under. The bureau notes that far more fatalities occur on unlighted streets than on safely lighted ones.

Heights Pupils 'Adopt' Korean War Orphan

KAN JUNG SU

The student body of Arlington Heights high school recently completed a collection to support a Korean war orphan, under the auspices of the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Inc.

The student council, which proposed the plan, will handle all correspondence and other matters in connection with the "adoption."

Selected as the particular charge of local high school students is Kan Jung Su, who is eight years old and in the second grade at a school near Pusan, where she lives with her mother and younger brother

The plan is a non-political, non-profit, non-sectarian, independent relief organization, helping children in England, France, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Greece, Western Germany and Korea. It is registered with the Advisory Committee on Voluntary Foreign Aid of the United States Government.

"Adoption" is financial only—$180 a year helps provide for a child for a year. Personal correspondence between the child and his foster parent are encouraged. Through the plan, the adoption child is given food, clothing, specific medical care, welfare service and is enabled to go to school.

St. John's Guild Holds 7th Annual Card Party

Members of Evening guild of St. John's Episcopal church were hostesses at their seventh annual card party last Thursday evening at the high school cafeteria. Spruance were in charge of the distribution of the generous selection of gifts.

During the card playing the members of the youth group of the church sold soft drinks. At the close of the evening, homemade cakes and coffee were served to all the guests. Mrs. James O. Turney, social chairman of the guild, was in charge of the refreshments, assisted by her committee, Mrs. E. B. Smeed, Mrs Eloise Kinney, Mrs. E. J. Graham, Mrs. John A. Wedgewood To Hold Benefit Dance Saturday

A big dance is being sponsored Saturday night, at Fred's Place (Rand rd., near Elmhurst rd.) by the Wedgewood Terrace Improvement association. Tickets can be purchased at the door for only $1 per person.

Excellent attendance was indicated last week when President Oscar Miller announced that "Over 75 per cent of the available tickets have already been sold. We've put aside a block of tickets for purchase at the door. We don't want to disappoint those who show up at the last minute."

Bill Roadrian's fine orchestra will start playing at 9 p.m. Those in attendance will be eligible for special awards.

The assured financial success of the dance is wonderful news to the residents of Wedgewood Terrance. The association was formed only a few months ago

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

That spiritualization of thought and action is necessary for real progress will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Soul and Body."

The following passage will be among those read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Mortals must gravitate Godward, their affections and aims grow spiritual,—they must near the broader interpretations of being, and gain some proper sense of the infinite,—in order that sin and mortality may be put off" (265: 5).

From the Bible will be read the following counsel given by the Apostle Paul to the Corinthians: "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God" (I Corinthians 2: 12).

The Golden Text is from II Corinthians: "What agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God" (6: 16).

AVOID BELT TROUBLE

Many belts are not only unserviceable — they're a downright menace to the garment with which they're worn.

Here's the story.

Some belts shrink, deteriorate, lose shape, warp and buckle, or — worst of all — even fade into the garment itself. A bad thing which frequently ruins the garment.

And here's the answer:

Look for the belt that carries the label: "Cleanable and Washable", all belts carry that label are safe. They will not be harmed by any of the usualy cleaning or washing, whether we do the work for you or you do it yourself.

If the belt doesn't carry the "Cleanable or Washable" label, the best thing to do is look further. Try to buy only "cleanable or washable" belts and save yourself the difficulties caused by unservicable belts.

Naturally, almost any garment can be paired with an almost endless variety of contrasting belts, so if the garment is just what you want, replace the belt before you wear it with a belt which won't ruin your garment. That way you'll be sure, just as you are when you

North Western To Modernize Loop Station; To Have Stores

Plans to convert the entire street-level floor of the Chicago and North Western railway company's Chicago passenger terminal into a shopping center were disclosed by Paul E. Feucht, president of the railway company.

The shopping center will be made possible, he said, by the relocation and improvement of other facilities in the terminal which will result in greater efficiency of service and convenience to railroad patrons.

In addition to the creation of a terminal shopping center, the program calls for installation of escalators, construction of new ticket offices and of the facilities on the second floor as well as enlargement of the second floor area where all passenger service facilities will be located. Feucht said construction on the first of two stages of the project will start this month, with the second stage to be undertaken next year.

THE PROJECT'S first stage, on which construction will begin in May, will include the following:

1. Extension of the second floor over the Madison street stairwell to the front of the building, adding approximately 3,000 square feet to the second floor area.

2. Removal of ticket offices from street level floor and construction of modern ticket offices, reservation bureau, telephone information center and travel bureau as one physical unit along south end of main waiting room. At present these facilities are on four different floors of the terminal.

3. Relocate baggage checking office from street-level floor to second floor over present Canal street stairway.

4. ELIMINATE present Canal Street stairs and replace with modern escalators, increasing first floor lobby area at foot of escalators adjoining taxi and Parmelee ramps and access to Canal Street.

5. Remodeling northeast end of main waiting room to provide open access to elevators and new baggage checking office.

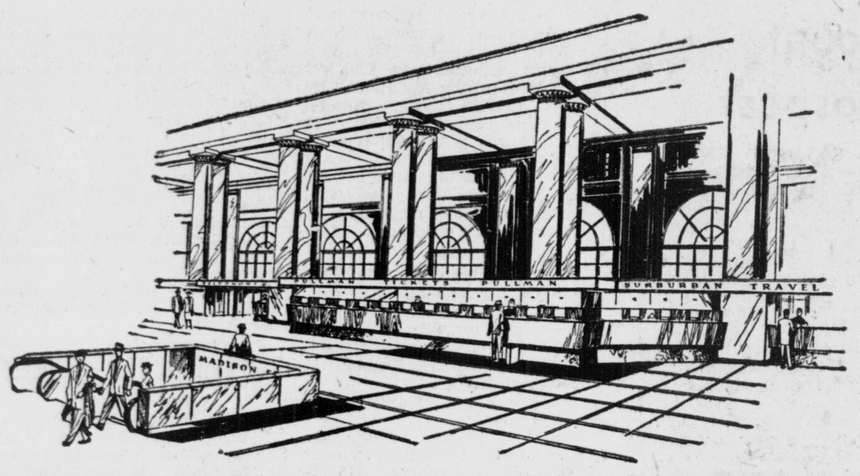

6. Removal of passenger service facilities from street-level floor will release more than 25,000 square feet for rental or lease to business establishments.

Rev. C. V. Brown To Attend General Assembly

Rev. C. Victor Brown, minister of the First Presbyterian church of Arlington Heights, has been elected one of the commissioners to attend the meeting of general assembly to be held in Detroit May 20 through May 26. There are 12 ministers and 12 elders elected by the Chicago Presbytery.

The general assembly meets annually with an equal number of ministers and elders to transact the business of the Presbyterian church. It can make no constitutional changes without the approval of the Presbyteries. One of the major issues of this meeting of general assembly will be the proposed union with the Presbyterian church of the south and the United Presbyterian church.

Architect's conception of remodeled main waiting room of Chicago and North Western Railway's passenger terminal in Chicago showing ticket offices, reservations and travel bureaus and telephone information center as a single unit at south end of room. Main staircase also will be remodeled and escalators installed.

Dangers Of Night Driving Increase After 30 Years

Someone has called driving in today's crowded conditions a series of avoided accidents. The Chicago Motor club warns motorists it's much harder to avoid an accident when the sun goes down. And mile-for-mile, records show there's about three times more danger in driving at night than during the day.

One of the most common driving errors resulting in night-time crashes is "over-driving" the headlights. That means driving so fast as to be unable to stop within the effectively lighted zone ahead.

ANOTHER NIGHT problem of the motorist is inability to see objects ahead when bright lights are shining in his eyes. Called "glare resistance," this factor varies greatly with individuals. Among drivers generally, ability to see satisfactorily in the face of glare begins to decline at the age of 30. It starts to drop off sharply at about 50 years and reaches a very low point for persons 70 years or over.

The speed of recovery from glare also goes rapidly downward with advancing years. The "blind" period you must travel after getging a full dose of undimmed headlights is a lot longer for the past-fifty folks than it is for their children.

TOO MANY DRIVERS go at nearly the same speed at night as they drive during the day. They fail to realize that at 60 mph, it takes the average car about 340 feet to come to a stop. That's roughly the distance between the goal-lines on a football field. At 30 mph, you can probably come to a stop within 100 feet, but on a poorly-lighted street, chances are you won't see a pedestrian in dark clothes until you are closer than that.

A Real Children's Playground With Animals 'And Things'

Deer Haven, a children's animal playland will open in Fox Lake, at rt. 59 and Grand ave., May 30. The first of its kind to be established in this area, Deer Haven is a departure from the usual zoo-type exhibit in that such animals as deer, rabbits, lambs, chicks, peacocks, and guinea pigs will be there for children to feed, handle, and pet.

Dr. John F. McMahon, well known Chicago dentist, and William J. Strizek, former machine business owner, heads of Deer Haven, said that 20 acres of the 46 acre plot is fenced with 8 foot wire which borders the site. However, within the enclosure are small pens which house the animals. These pens are accessible to the public, especially children, who can go in and play with the animals. Dr. McMahon stated that the $100,000 playland is the fulfillment of a long time ambition to have a zoo "not only for exhibit but for close association with the animals-mainly handling." The more than 100 animals at Deer Haven are tamed and small.. According to McMahon once an animal gets too big or for any reason becomes even slightly wild it will be shipped to a zoo.

Another attraction of the playland will be 200 picnic tables and 40 barbeque pits for family outings. There will be a novelty shop on the premises as well as refreshment stands. Although there is to be a small admission charge to the grounds, ample free parking is provided.

MONEY TO BURN?

Inadequate fire insurance can have the same effect as touching a match to a thousand dollar bill. A $5000 policy on a $10,000 house may leave you open to a very serious loss. A fire policy which does not include the Extended Coverage endorsement is inadequate. And a fire policy which covers your house but not the contents is not enough.
If you're doubtful about the effectiveness of your fire insurance, we'll be glad to advise you, without obligation.

LIVE OUTDOORS AND LIKE IT

Soon the air will grow soft again, the snow will silently disappear, and tender green shoots and sprigs will change the earth's color scheme. It will be spring . . . with its irresistible invitation to enjoy relaxed outdoor living, a custom which is as much a part of our American scene as a Fourth of July parade.

Setting the outdoor living scene with a few old castoffs dragged out of the basement or attic is a thing of the past. Today, whether we use a screened porch, a backyard barbecue, or a shady terrace, we choose our outdoor furniture with an eye to beauty, function and comfort. We select furnishings that have been treated to resist the punishment of scorching sun and drenching showers. These pieces are often used indoors when the chill winds of winter return.

The sketch above shows a screened porch that has been converted into a gracious outdoor living room. Studio couch cover is a subtle combination of terra cotta and sandalwood brown, blends well with exterior house color. Marine blue reclining chairs give bright color accent. Note how carefully selected accessories . . . lamps, pictures and bric-a-brac give the room a gracious, hospitable atmosphere. Floor is covered with rush squares.

Our trained decorators will be most happy to help you with ideas and suggestions for making your outdoor living spots gracious and attractive. You are welcome to avail yourself of this professional service anytime. Our latch string is always out.

MAC SAYS

BY G. A. McELROY

WHEN LA GRANGE WON the state high school track title at Champaign Saturday it was their third straight and fifth in the last seven years. Harold Caffey's almost impossible effort in the anchor leg of the final event, the mile relay, gave LaGrange the event and the title by one point over Waukegan. It is interesting to note that of the first eight teams in the table of points, seven were from the Chicago area. This included Waukegan, Oak Park, Highland Park, and New Trier from the Suburban league; LaGrange and Arlington Heights from the West Suburban; and Phillips from Chicago. Phillips, the favorite, finished sixth.

Three individual champions were winners in the Palatine Relays the last Saturday in April. Dick Winterbauer of Arlington repeated as state shot champ with a new record of 57' 2 3/8" with Tom Peters of Glenbard also breaking the record with 56' 7¼".

Jim Franzen of Highland Park won both the 100 and 220 yard dashes with marks of :10.1 and :21.9. Jim Bowers, little five-foot-six sophomore from DeKalb, won the mile in the remarkable high school time of 4:28.8. He won the class "A" Palatine Relays mile in 4:36. Ned Sargeant of Mooseheart, who won the Palatine Relays class "B" mile, took third in the state finals.

STATE CAGE TOURNAMENT will remain a 16 team affair for at least another year. Al Willis, executive secretary of the Illinois high school association, made this announcement in connection with reporting the results of a poll of the high school principals of the state. The poll showed 369 favoring retention of the 16 team final and 291 opposing it.

Fifty-one per cent of the schools which have competed in the state tournament the last 10 years voted against the 16 team tournament, indicating a growing opposition.

In view of this trend the state authorities will start working on a revision of the present system which may possibly mean an eight team tournament in 1956.

WEST SUBURBAN CONFERENCE increased its athletic prestige still further when Hinsdale copped the state golf title. Waukegan got two seconds the last week end, being state runnerup in both track and golf. Geoffrey Ames of Hinsdale with a 75 and a 78 won the individual state golf title beating out defending champ Pete Beardsley of Springfield by three strokes.

WITH GLENBROOK'S early contenders dropping four games in a row, the Northwest conference baseball race nears its conclusion with what appears to be a two team battle between Grayslake and Antioch.

Grant has an outside chance to get in on a share of the championship. The rest of the teams appear to be out of the running.

Antioch has the best hitting team and Grayslake has in Jay Hook the best pitcher. Antioch set a conference record for runs in one game with 26 and the Sequoits and Bensenville set a mark for two teams of 35 in their long drawn out 26-9 struggle on the Bison diamond last Friday.

SPRING SPORTS at Arlington Heights high school are nearing their end and, in some respects, outlook is brighter than any since the school joined the West Suburban league. Track is the exception, but turnout of frosh-sophs indicates a growing interest in things other than shot and discus.

The weights, aided by Coach Bill Beckman and star pupil Dick Winterbauer, has plenty of glamor for freshmen, with as many boys out as the rest of the varsity team combined.

The varsity baseball team has been giving a good account of itself and could finish in the first division. The sophomores have been losing some disappointing games, but Coach "Bus" Ormsbee insists there's nothing wrong with the team that improvement in defensive outfielding couldn't help.

Frosh baseball squad has been providing fuel for Coach Maurice Klotz' dry sense of humor as they walloped the opposition, most recently dealing Maine two defeats, both by 13-7 scores.

The golf team has provided as many smiles of appreciation as Winterbauer in the weights while winning 14 of 15 matches, with the crucial Hinsdale contest slated for Thursday.

Coach Larsen tells us just two of his mainstays will be gone next year, including Dick Hauff, but he'll have five juniors spearheading the varsity in '55. Just who'll make up the frosh-sophs may turn out to be "first three that show up."

Even in tennis, where the Cardinals have just begun to be heard from, Coach Ken Schaller has been walking like a head coach this season, instead of the minor status of other years. West Suburban schools, particularly Riverside, LaGrange and Hinsdale, have long been bred in tennis with a dozen courts for one school not unusual.

Arlington, in cooperation with the park district, now has nine, a considerable improvement which should begin to pay off in a year or two.

All in all, sports at Arlington have begun to pick up from the bottom of the cycle so evident when the school first entered the tougher West Suburban league. Stiffer competition is making better teams for the Cardinals, often shown when the locals meet other school with whom they use to regularly compete.

TRACK IN THE NORTHWEST conference, outside of Palatine, is at low ebb, but last week's frosh-soph meet indicated that in a year or two Palatine's monopoly will be seriously challenged. Glenbrook, with a big enrollment, good facilities, and expert coaching, will probably be challenger to Palatine's reign, which now has reached six straight years and nine championships in the 15 years since the league was reorganized.

The league record of 89 points may not be beyond the realm of Palatine possibilities this year if the Pirates should concentrate on total points instead of setting league individual records.

Northwest track meets have been held at Palatine all but one year in the last 15. Next year the meets will be held at Glenbrook. The Spartans were assigned the meets this year but seeding of the grounds prevented their acceptance. Grant has a new track and will be in line to host the annual meet, so Palatine authorities are looking forward to a good long vacation as far as sponsoring Northwest meets is concerned.

Glenbrook And Grayslake Next At Palatine Meet

Palatine Pirates will be gunning for their seventh straight Northwest Conference track championship in the eight team competition to be held at Palatine on Ost Field, Wednesday, May 26. The Pirates, who were winners of the Class "B" division of the Palatine Relays a month earlier, are expected to double the count on their closest competitior. Glenbrook and Grayslake are expected to finish second and third. The meet, a twi-light affair, will start at 6 p.m.

In Carl Nuss, Jim Hess, Paul Hess, Norman Stenzel, Alan Eck and Leonard Wiese, Palatine has potential first place winners.

Norman Stenzel will be a threat to break both the hurdle records one of which he himself holds. Jim Hess of Palatine and Gary Windell of Glenbrook ran a :10.4 dead heat in the league frosh-soph 100 last week and this mark is the varsity record. Both have gone :10.3 and it could happen again.

CARL NUSS might crack the shot put mark of 47'7 ¾" set by Nielsen of Antioch in 1945. Nuss has exceeded 47' on several occasions. Nuss and Jerl May of Glenbrook will be leading competitors for the discus with Tom Walsh of Bensenville a strong possibility in both weight events.

Dick Cryer, the Grayslake one man track team, can be counted for some first places. He has beaten both Hess and Windell in the 100 yard dash and may be the new record holder.

Dick ran a :51.5 in the 440 at the district and may set a new mark in the quarter mile event with Alan Eck of Palatine giving him a tough race. Dennis Punches of Wauconda, who won the class "B" broad jump at the Palatine Relays, is favored to cop his specialty.

PALATINE'S 880 relay team has run the event well under the league mark set 13 years ago by Barrington but may pass it up to compete in individual events. No athlete may compete in more than three events, including relays.

Admission to the meet will be the conference rates established for all athletic events, 75c for adults and 40c for students. Entrance to the field will be through the gate on Colfax street.

Committee in charge of planning the meet is made up of three principals: Richard Warfield of Wauconda, Martin Zuckerman of Bensenville and G. A. McElroy of Palatine, chairman. J. E. Stutzman, Paltine high athletic director, is manager of the meet.

Bison Runners Top Heights Sophs

Bensenville's varsity track team won itself a dual Friday against the Arlington frosh-sophs on the Heights field, 59-45. Considering the comparative sizes of the two schools, the meet had its usual close competition.

Bensenville took eight firsts, Arlington four. For the Cardinal yearlings Larry Long went over the low hurdles in :22.6; Bill Palmer high jumped 5'2"; and Dennis Striegel copped the shot at 47'4" and discus at 117'3". Otherwise Heights, coached by John Ligon, took six seconds and eight thirds.

Need More Adults For Little League Play In Arlington

Greatest need on the Little League front for Arlington Heights is still adult help as minor league managers, it was revealed Tuesday after a board meeting Monday night. There are plenty of kids who want to play, diamonds on which to compete, but not enough adults to supervise.

Anyone wishing to help as minor league managers is asked to contact officials. Those living on the north side of the North Western tracks are asked to call Joe McGrath at CLearbrook 3-0583 while those living on the south side are asked to contact Herb Carl at CLearbrook 3-5615.

MORE TRYOUTS will be held Saturday with 10, 11 and 12 year old boys on the north side slated to report at 1 p.m. at Recreation park. Eight and nine year olds have already been informed when they will report for National league, north side, activity.

On the south side, where the American league predominates, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 year olds are asked to report to the Junior high field at 1 p.m. Saturday.

LLOYD TAYLOR, president of Little League, has asked prompt return of adult membership cards with one dollar per family. These cards were taken home to parents with the boys, with one dollar asked from each family to help defray expense of baseballs, and other equipment.

The cards haven't been coming in as fast as hoped. They should be turned in to the boys' managers, or mailed direct to Mrs. Glen Buckley, 1404 West Elm, Arlington Heights.

Adult membership in the Little League at Arlington Heights means voting rights in the annual meeting, as well as needed support for the enjoyment of the boys.

Sports Dinner At Arlington Wednesday

Arlington Heights high school athletes, cheerleaders, coaches and officials will dine Wednesday evening, May 26, at the annual all-sports banquet with Coach George Ireland of Loyola university featured speaker.

"Brevity, fun and fellowship" are the order for the night, according to athletic director Wally Grace, who gave details of the banquet this week. "Presentations and recognitions will be brief, there will be no long drawn out program", continued Wally.

COACH IRELAND is well-known for his inspiring messages to both boys and their parents. He was engaged for the banquet in March after school officials were impressed with his delivery at another affair. Adults and students are invited to attend the dinner in the high school cafeteria, starting at 6:45 p.m. Dinner tickets are $1.75.

A question and answer session will follow Coach Ireland's talk.

GUESTS for the night will be varsity letter winners and frosh-soph numeral winners in the nine sports at Arlington, varsity and frosh-soph cheerleaders, coaching staff and school officials.

In the old days sports banquets were lengthened by award of letters to spring sports participants. This is no longer done at the banquet, shortening the program and making it more enjoyable for those attending.

Arlington Nine Tops Riverside

Arlington's baseball team continued their winning way Tuesday afternoon by administering an 11-9 victory against Riverside-Brookfield. The win gave Heights a firm hold on fourth place.

Arlington scored three in the second, five in the fifth and three in the sixth. Riverside tallied eight times in the fourth, once in the fifth.

Twirling for Coach Howard Lester was Larry Brumm, Ed Linneman and Dave Ryden. On the mound for Riverside were Hirt and Sladek.

Verret homered with Dotts doubling for Heights, Lang doubled for the losers.

To Stress Follow-Through At Ladies Free Golf Classes

Gene Battistoni, playing pro at Arlington country club and well-known tournament playing golfer, was an added attraction Thursday night in the second night of Paddock Publications free golf classes for the ladies.

The classes run Thursday nights through May, with lesson number three, follow-through, planned for May 20. Classes start at 7:30 p.m. All any woman need bring with her is one club.

ENTHUSIASM has been running high this year with more than 75 women attending. Battistoni demonstrated how women should play golf, took several shots, and talked to the ladies, giving them hints on better golf.

Two weeks ago teacher Dan Taggart, manager of Arlington country club, stressed backswing with individual attention given to everyone, necessitating conclusion of the lesson inside. Second Thursday it was downswing. This week the lesson is follow-through with a review of all three, plus putting, planned for the final night May 27.

IN EVENT of bad weather, the class will be delayed one week. Last minute ruling in event of rain, snow, sleet or what have you can best be gained by calling Taggart at the clubhouse Thursday nights, phone number is Wheeling 167.

Hinsdale Match Thursday A Crucial One

Spring sports are nearing their end at Arlington Heights high school with the tennis and track squads ending competition Wednesday of this week, the golf team engaging in the conference meet Monday and final match Tuesday, and the baseball team certain to finish competition Thursday of next week, weather permitting.

The all-sports banquet Wednesday night, May 26, will be another feature of the final week for high school sports at Arlington Heights.

THE GOLF TEAMS, coached by Curtis Larsen, may be in the drivers' seats in the conference tournament Monday at Timber Trails country club Monday with LaGrange serving as host.

Both varsity and frosh-soph teams are leading the league, undefeated, going into Thursday's matches with Hinsdale. The Red Devils won the state championship Saturday at Champaign.

Heights golf fans are hoping a slight letdown on the part of Hinsdale will give Arlington the edge.

BOTH SCHOOLS have exceptional teams this year. The Cardinals finished second in district play for the sixth year, this time just seven strokes behind winner Hinsdale.

West Suburban league championship is determined by the sum of position standings in both dual play and conference tournament. In other words, first in each would total two, seconds in both would total four, etc. Low total wins the championship.

Heights won the golf title the first two years it participated in the Wets Suburbna League golf race, but finished fourth last year.

DICK WINTERBAUER successfully defended his state shot put title Saturday, and set a new record in the process, when he put the shot 57'2⅜". Tom Peters of Glenbard had gained the shot put headlines Friday in the preliminaries when he set a new state figure of 56'7¼", but Dick came through in the finals to win one of his two specialties.

Winterbauer tossed the discus "only" 159'8¾" Friday, which netted him third place behind Bob Pellant of Rockford and Rodney Bonser of Heyworth. Pellant set the new mark of 162'1½". All three boys broke the old figure set by Chuck Hoag of Oak Park in 1949.

NORMALLY a toss of 159' would win easily, but this year 150' shot putters were almost a dime a dozen. Dick competed in the West Suburban track meet Wednesday night of this week, closing a high school career that has gained him shot and discus honors starting in his freshman year.

Dick was also a star with the football team.

This year he put more effort in the weights, directed by the very able weight coach Bill Beckman, and set fifteen shot records, plus ten in the discus.

His best marks:

	Shot	Discus
Indoor
New Trier	52'11"
Univ. High Relays	55'1"
Maine	54'3¾"
Evanston Relays	57'2"
Oak Park Relays	56'½"
Outdoor
Downers	54'	155'9¾"
Decatur Relays	56'2"	148'6½"
Riverside Relays	55'10¼"	175'5½"
Palatine	53'	170'6"
Palatine Relays	56'3¾"	163'3½"
Mooseheart Relays	57'	156'8"
Hinsdale Relays	52'8"	150'
Palatine	54'11"	148'8"
District	54'1½"	162'2½"
State	57'2⅜"	159'8¾"

DICK MICHALSKI pole vaulted 11'4" but there were thirteen others that did the same. The standard was raised to 11'8" with Dick unable to vault that high.

Palatine's Norm Stenzel also failed to qualify for the finals. Arlington finished seventh, one point behind favored Phillips of Chicago. LaGrange won the team title for the third year in a row, copping the event on outstanding runs by John Pendexter and Harold Caffey in the final relay.

Each boy had to make up 15 yards with Caffey edging his opponent by one inch and winning the meet by one point.

Varsity tennis at Arlington Heights high school showed some improvement this year, and the above boys made it possible. This is the third year of the net sport at AHTHS and another season or two with added spirit evident among frosh-sophs should pay off.

In Mount Prospect Monday Golf Loop Bank Leads By One

Prospects of playing evening of May 10 looked rather dim for awhile. However, it cleared up and play was underway. The course was in much better condition than it had been two weeks before in the Mt. Prospect Monday golf league.

Several of the golfers came in a little on the damp side, having been caught in a down pour before they were able to finish their last three holes.

In spite of the weather Sundberg scored the first "Grand slam" of the year, blanking Busse Biermann Hardware. Van Driel's scored nine to move into second place while the Bank came up with 8½ points to put them in first.

L. Johnson Jr. had a bird on the 18th, Dick Evans one on the 9th and Ken Sophie on the 16th.

Kruse Schlitz Ups Mt. Prospect Tuesday Golf Lead To 3 Points

By virtue of 6½ points wrested from Mt. Prospect Electric Const. Co. and ½ point awarded by the rules committee Henry Kruse's Schlitz team increased its league lead to three points after last Tuesday's struggle in the Mt. Prospect twilight golf league. The one half point decision of the rules committee came as the result of a protest following the Golden's Food Shop match of two weeks ago and involved indiscriminate lineup juggling.

Keefer's Pharmacy remained in second after a 6-4 victory over Mt. Prospect Lions club but were forced to share the spot with Mt. Prospect Jewelers, who forged a brilliant victory over K. R. Whitton, Realtors.

Park Ridge Stop and Sock led by captain Raleigh Westfall, who shot a one over par 36 picked up 4½ points to gain a tie for the lead in Rob Roy Tuesday Night Golf league. Westfall bogied the first hole and then shot par the rest of the way. Wheeling Bowling Lanes came to life and took four of seven points from Rhode's Appliance.

Bert Casteel, with his 38 and the rest of the Koske Excavator team were able to find their way back onto the golf course for 5½ points from Smith & Dawson. After last weeks drubbing at the hands of the Park Ridge Stop and Sock.

Hawthorne Meeting

Fourteen stakes and handicap events valued at $330,000 in added money and purses will highlight Hawthorne's 34-day fall race meeting.

Palatine Easily Wins Fourth NW Frosh-Soph Track Title

Palatine scored a record total of 81 points to easily outdistance their nearest rival as they won their fourth straight Northwest conference frosh-soph track championship. A total of seven records were broken as the marks were the best of any meet of the four which have been held.

Glenbrook scored 36 points for second with Bensenville totaling 24 and Antioch 23 for third and fourth.

Palatine won eight events and scored no less than four points in any event on the program.

PALATINE ACCOUNTED for four of the seven records. Leonard Rohde tossed the 12 pound shot 46 feet to break the record by three feet. Carl Bondeson clipped a tenth of a second off the 880 mark with 2:12.7. Jim Hess, who also won the 220, tied with Gary Windel of Glenbrook in the 100 yard dash in the fine record time of :10.4.

Palatine's soph relay team of Steve Cornwell, John Dilks, Bruce Anderson, and Jim Hess ran the 440 relay in :48.1 to erase a four year old Barrington mark of 49 flat.

Bensenville's Bisons, who made a good showing, had two new records. Tom Philiben, who also won the 440, made one of the best new records with a 19'9" broad jump. Richard D'Hooge, lanky Bison hurdler, won both the lows and highs and got his name in the record book with :09.8 in the 70 yard high event.

Tom Sickinger of Glenbrook knocked out the record of Frank Cole of Ela in the discus with a throw of 117' 1¾".

Palatine's frosh relay team were short only a tenth of a second of equaling the record. The Pirate quartet which gave a very smooth exhibition of baton passing was composed of Nick Weber, Mike Lynch, David Wagner and Douglas Peterson. Other Palatine firsts were by Roy Burns in the pole vault and Fred Swanson, who tied for first in the high jump.

Grant Dumps Palatine, 10-6; Bensenville Flooded, 26-9

Grayslake won their eighth victory in 10 games Friday, whipping Wauconda, 11-2, with all runs scored in the first three innings. Catcher Andy Bartoli hit a two run homer to lead a seven run opening inning assault. Hook who was Grayslake's hurler for four innings and Larry Kaufman who pitched the last three held the Bulldogs to one hit, a bunt fielded by the first baseman whith no one covering the bag to take the throw.

Grant took advantage of "Tinker" Meyer's wildness to tally five times in the second inning and go on to a 10-6 victory at Palatine.

Kent Raffel led the Grant hitting with a triple and single. "Tinker" Meyer and Doug Culver hit for the circuit for Palatine and Culver, Larry Hapke, Roger Niemeyer, and Tom Hillesheim each had two safe hits for the Pirates. Palatine outhit the visitors 12 to eight but committed seven errors and issued eight bases on balls. It was Palatines fifth loss in nine games.

ANTIOCH POUNDED four Bensenville pitchers for 19 hits and swamped the Bisons, 26-9, in a long, drawn out, wild baseball game. The Sequoits scored in all innings except the seventh and sent 13 men across the plate in the big fifth frame. Warren Brownlee and Jack Lawrence hit home runs for Antioch. Sirotzki, Benhart, Henrickson, and Busse all saw action on the mound for the Bisons who gave their hurlers poor support with nine fielding misplays.

Glenbrook lost their fourth game in a row to drop out of the Northwest race Friday when the Ela-Vernon Bears outpointed them, 9-8, at Lake Zurich.

A single by Walt Murphy in the final inning with two out brought in Don Prouty with the winning run. Tom Rorke had three singles in four trips while Herb Ward cracked out two long triples. Glenbrook's hurlers Gene Lembke and Dick Shirling gave up 11 bases on balls.

Arlington Nine Blows 5-0 Lead, But Defeats Maine, 7-6

Ed Linneman struck out Musser and Callahan and made Gartner fly out to center to save the game for the Arlington varsity baseball squad against Maine Monday afternoon, 7-6. The tilt was played at Recreation park.

The Cardinals were enjoying a 5-0 lead with Mike Shanklin on the mound until the sixth when singles by Olson and Hunt, then a triple by Rutkowski, plus two errors, brought in three markers for Maine.

ARLINGTON come back with two runs in their half. Dick France walked and stole second. Shanklin hit to left and stole second, France taking third. Bakalar then hit to center, scoring both boys with a strike out and two infield grounders, short to first, killing the inning.

Maine kept after Shanklin with singles by McKenzie, Perrill and Olson. Exit Mr. Shanklin, enter Mr. Linneman. Hunt hit past third, and Rutkowski gained a fielder's choice. With the score 7-6, Arlington, Linneman came through with the aforementioned strikeouts, etc., and the game was won. Shanklin was awarded the victory, with Hunt the loser for Maine.

THE CARDINALS scored once in the second on walks to Sieburg and Dotts, two stolen bases, an error, and a hit by Roger Thomas, scoring Sieburg.

Then came the big third for Coach Howard Lester's charges. Shanklin walked. Bakalar hit to right. Lemke was out at first. Verret was safe on an infield hit. Meanwhile, an error and a passed ball started bringing in the runs.

Dotts singled past third, scoring Verret, with an error enabling Dotts to take second. A double to right by Denny Maher brought in the fourth run, an infield grounder ending things.

SHANKLIN FANNED twelve, Linneman two, Hunt four, Langley three. Shanklin and Langley walked three, Hunt four. Maine had nine left on base, Arlington six.

Card Soph Nine Loses To Maine

Arlington's sophomore baseball team blew a 5-2 lead at Maine Monday for a 7-5 loss. This gave Coach "Bus" Ormsbee's squad a 3-2 slate to date.

Maine drew first blood in the second inning when two errors were combined with hits by Cappetta and Paice for two runs.

In the top of the fourth Heights came alive, starting with a single by Lew Green. A hit batsman, fielder's choice, two walks, triple by Stocking and a single by Ebert brought in five scores as ten men batted.

MAINE BOUNCED back with four runs on two errors, a walk, fielder's choice and a hit by Fick. An error plus hits by Burcham and Fick brought in the final tally for the winners in the sixth.

On the mound for the Cardinals was John Sujack with Alan Smeby taking over in the bottom of the fourth in an effort to strengthen the outfield. Scheer twirled two innings for Maine, then was removed in favor of Burcham.

Arlington Frosh Nine Downs Leyden, Maine

Arlington Heights freshman baseball squad won two more games the past week, downing Leyden, 9-6, and repeating over Maine, 13-7. The yearlings, coached by Maurice Klotz, subdued Maine by identical scores on successive Mondays. The frosh now have a 4-2 record.

With Pat Brownell on the mound, Leyden found tough going as he fanned twelve boys, though Leyden started fast with three runs the first inning. Singles by Jablonski, Rasmussen and Ebeline, plus an error, told the story that opening frame.

THE CARDINALS retaliated with a loner in the second on an error, infield out and a hit by Tom Thackery. In the fourth twelve men batted for the Heights frosh with seven runs scoring.

Larry Webber fanned with Ron Holznagel singling. Tom Thackery walked, Tony Panunzio singled. Don Plank batted for Jack Palmer and walked. Ted Geocaris walked with John Wille on first via an error.

Pat Brownell, Dan Vittum and Larry Webber all singled, Holznagel fanning for the second out. Tom Thackery did the same, ending the inning with Heights on the long end, 8-3.

IN THE FIFTH Arlington scored again when Panunzio singled, Plank was hit by a pitched ball with Frank Golle running for him and a long fly.

Allen homered for Leyden in the fifth, with two walks and a hit bringing in two more for the losers in the sixth. Arlington committed a double play in the second, Geocaris to Panunzio to Webber.

AT MAINE Heights scored in every inning. In the first a walk and an error brought in Wille. In the second hits by Pat Klement, Ron Holznagel and Ted Geocaris, plus two walks, brought in two scores. In the third three walks and two errors accounted for three more runs for Coach Klotz' boys.

The fourth inning meant five more tallies for the locals. Brownell opened and closed the inning with strikeouts, but in between Dan Vittum homered, Webber, Panunzio, Geocaris and Wille singled, and Holznagel and Jacobson walked. Singles by Webber and Panunzio, and two walks brought in a loner in the fifth with an error, walk and a single accounting for final run in the sixth.

Minnows Come Back Fast After Seining In Water

The Illinois natural history survey has been conducting studies of minnow populations in creeks of east central Illinois to learn what effect seining of minnows might have on annual populations. They have found that taking minnows out of a stream with electric shocker or seine has little damaging effect on the annual population. In a short time after cropping, the stream is again populated by new minnows moving in.

Many fishermen have been advocating a ban on minnow seining in their favorite smallmguth bass streams. They are convinced taking minnows will starve their bass. The results of these studies indicates their fears have little grounds in actual fact.

IN ONE CREEK the survey men found a total poundage of 183.80 pounds per acre of water could be taken in a 3 months period and still leave a sizeable population in the stream.

Minnows also have cycles both in abundance and average weights of individual fish. These natural annual cycles have much more effect on minnow populations than does even very heavy cropping by seine or electric shocker. The population will be short only a few months if the environment is right for minnows.

The study has gone on for several years and will continue so that sufficient time will have been taken to prove the population trends.

Tirade Against Sale Of Enos Not The First In Diamond History

Gussie Busch, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, has heard plenty from his fans and the St. Louis press since he traded the popular old war horse of the Cardinals, Enos Slaughter, to the New York Yankees, says the Sporting News.

Yet, Busch may take a little solace from the abuse which was heaped on earlier club owners and general managers who irked their fans and defied sentiment by trading away or selling popular athletes. 'Way back in the eighties they almost dunked Chris Von Der Ahe, colorful owner of the old St. Louis Browns, into the Mississippi River when he sold Pitchers Dave Foutz and Bobby Carruthers and Catcher Doc Bushong of his three-time champions for $10,000 and accepted another $5,000 of filthy lucre from the Philadelphis A's for Outfielder Curt Welch, and early St. Louis World's Series hero, and shortstop Bill Gleason.

HOWEVER, the howls against Von Der Ahe were just zephyrs compared to the storm raised in St. Louis in 1926 when the late Sam Breadon, former Cardinal owner, gave out the announcement he had traded the Cardinals' great second baseman and batting champion, Rogers Hornsby, to the Giants for Second Baseman Frankie Frisch and Pitcher Jimmy Ring.

The town went wild with rage, and thirsted for Breadon's gore. His name quickly became anathema in St. Louis. Boiling Sam in oil would have been considered light punishment.

A deal made by the Giants one year after obtaining Hornsby, trading Rogers to the Boston Braves for catcher Shanty Hogan and outfielder Jimmy Welsh, was almost as much of a stunner for New York, fans as the original Cardinal-Giant Hornsby swap.

BOSTON FANS and writers writhed after Harry Frazee, owner of the Boston Red Sox, sold the club's young home run champion and great lefthanded pitcher, George Herman (Babe) Ruth to the New York Yankees in 1920 for $100,000.

There have been many squawks, the sales of Eddie Collins, Al Simmons, Lefty Grove, says The Sporting News in a feature of the current issue.

Artificial Lakes Breed More Fish Than Natural

Illinois can be the best fishing state in the United States, if, the country builds enough water and manage it properly. Why? Because fish production is basically dependent on fertile soil and Illinois has more fertile soil than most other states. Artificial ponds and lakes can produce many times that of natural lakes of states like Wisconsin, Michigan or Minnesota.

Evidence of very high production has been produced by the Illinois natural history survey. Near Potomac Malcolmson's pond, a gravel pit of about 1.5 acres was stocked with 13 smallmouth bass fingerlings and 74 spotted bass fingerlings seined from the Middle Fork River. It was not fished in 1948, but some fishing was done in 1949, after the first broods of young bass were observed. David Malcolmson, owner of the pond, bean keeping records of the catch in 1949 and has continued the record to date. In 1949, only 24 bass were caught and in 1950 there were 20. These low catches were not an indication of what might be taken, because fishing pressure was light.

DURING THE NEXT three years the fishing pressure was increased and the catch was 158 bass weighbass weighing 170 pounds in 1952, and 348 bass weighing 174.7 pounds in 1953.

As the pond is probably not more than 1.5 acres in area, the yields of 113 pounds per acre of 1952, and 116 pounds per acre in 1953 are the highest of which we have record for any of the three species of black bass.

The pond contains no fish other than smallmouth and spotted bass, and although the stocking ratio was nearly 6 to 1 in favor of spotted bass, the smallmouths probably now outnumber the spotted bass by 50 to 1; in fact, only four spotted bass have been caught in the past two years. The gravel pit waters become very warm in summer, and by past standards could not be considered as accepted small mouth bass habitat.

'Jolly Cholly' Played First Back In The Days When It Was A Man's Job

The Cleveland Indians switched Al Rosen from third base to first base. Eddie Stanky, St. Louis Cards' manager, instructs Ray Jamlonski, not a star at third, to learn first base for protection. Casey Stengel winds up a tough game for the New York Yankees with an outfielder, Irv Noren, at first.

It would seem as if anybody can play first, or so the managers indicate, says a feature story in the current issue of the Sporting News. This is rather disturbing to Charlie Grimm, Milwaukee manager and a top first baseman himself back when a first baseman was a first baseman and not anybody with a nodding acquaintance with the guy who ran the team.

"WHEN I PLAYED," Grimm reminisced, "we had first class regulars at first base in both leagues, and we were loaded with them. Now any Joe seems to get a chance at first. Well, I know it is not any old man's home out there at first, and I think the tipoff on all these experiments is how many of those first baseman stick at the job."

When Grimm was getting set on the job in 1921 he hit .274, and was coming strong. In the National Legaue, the Giants had George Kelly . (.308), the Cards Jack Fournier (.343), the Reds Jake Daubert (.306), the Cubs Ray Grimes (.321), the Dodgers Ray Schmandt (.305), the Phils Ed Konetchy (.298) and the Braves the weak man with the stick that year in Walter Holke (.261).

AMERICAN LEAGUE array went with the ineffable and greatest-of-them-all George Sisler (.371) with the Browns, George Burns (.361) and Doc Johnston (.297) with the Indians, Lu Blue (.308) with the Tigers, Stuffy McInnis (.307) with the Red Sox, Earl Sheely (.304) with the White Sox, Honey Walker (.304) with the Athletics, Joe Judge (.301) with the Senators and Wally Pipp (.296) with the Yankees.

Many of the current first base guardians are not first baseman — they're merely playing there. They catch the throw and then blindly poke to foot the bag. Branch Rickey recently appraised the important parts of a ball club, and then ended slurringly with the seeming afterthought, "and then there is first base."

This Britisher Feels Confident He'll Win Gloves Bout May 20

A bright young Englishman, who expects to become a daddy while he is in America, proudly claims he will be returned a victor when Europe opposes Chicago in the International Golden Gloves matches in Chicago Stadium a week from tonight.

Boasting? Perhaps. But he has the ability and the record to back up his claims. Bruce Wells is the confident young Britisher. The 20 year old corporal in the Royal Air Force has compiled a record of 252 victories against only two defeats, both of which he later revenged.

He is a much traveled amateur boxer. In trips to Denmark, Sweden, Spain, Germany, Poland, France, Portugal, Austria, Yugoslavia, Belgium and Ireland, the blond soldier has won 30 International bouts.

Wells stands six feet, 2¾ inches and weighs only 158 pounds. He must take off three pounds during the training period in Chicago to meet the weight requirement of 155 pounds, otherwise known the light middleweight division.

Be Sure Embroidery Is Sewn When Buying Tablecloth Gifts

If you're thinking about embroidered table cloths, placemats or napkins for that June bride make sure you're getting embroidery.

Some of the "embroidery" is only glued to the fabric, according to technicians at American Institute of Laundering, research and educational center of the laundry industry. One washing can loosen the backing and can cause the edging to go down the drain. In spect embroidery to make sure the edging is sewed on.

Scoring their largest number of runs this season, the varsity baseball squad came up with a decisive win over Bensenville, Saturday, when they scored 17 runs to their opponents' 3.

The Spartans opened with one in the first, only to find Bensenville doubling this in their half. During the next two innings neither team managed to cross the plate as both pitchers showed good form.

IT WAS IN the fourth that the Spartans started to circle the bases, not stopping until the close of the game. In this inning they scored two runs and held the Bisons. Then in the fifth frame the green and gold brought home five tallies on four walks and two hits as the opposing pitcher had trouble finding the plate. In their half of the inning Bensenville knocked in their last score of the game on three hits.

The Spartans continued to score as they collected two hits and a walk in the sixth and scored twice.

Gene Lembke retired the remaining members of the Bensenville squad in order while the Spartans batted all the way round in the seventh on four hits and two walks and scored seven runs to take the Bisons by a 17-to-3 score.

Predict Davey Loss Wednesday

Tickets for the Chuck Davey-Vince Martinez welterweight 10 rounder at the Chicago Stadium May 26 went on sale at noon Monday.

Meanwhile, the experts are continuing to predict that Davey will absorb the second knockout of his career from the No 6 welter contender. In fact, the consensus is that Chuck's career will end in the Stadium May 26, especially if he gets knocked out.

However, Davey has signed a contract to meet Art Aragon in an outdoor fight in Los Angeles in July. A knockout would cost the Michigan State lefty a big payday. On the other hand, Martinez has a chance to beat the biggest name that he has met to date.

New Type Barricade Approved For Hoosier Sportscar Classic

The Hoosier sportscar classic to be held in Columbus May 30 may well be the stepping stone to better, safer, and more interesting sportscar races.

Spectators at sportscar races have in the past had two main complaints. First, they were too far from the course to be able to appreciate the action fully; and, secondly they were in grave danger if they ventured close enough to see clearly.

At this Memorial Day sportscar classic the spectators will be able to both see and enjoy the races in complete comfort and safety, and at a distance of only 75 feet from the fast-flying speedsters.

In the Shadow of + + + The Steeple

by William O. McGill

Amid all the excitement attending the Army-McCarthy hearings, there is one educational aspect which a great many of us have apparently not realized.

I refer not to the charges and counter-charges being bandied back and forth. But to the more important fact: this is the way in which the Congress of the United States operates.

THE WORK of Congress is done by committees and subcommittees. In most cases, the investigative procedure of these committees is confined to the collection and collation of materials and opinions which may be useful in drafting legislation.

In most cases, the field of inquiry is less sensational than this particular controversy. But the St. Lawrence Seaway, which was recently approved, went through the same manner of hearings. Perhaps, if we add together all of the times that proposal had been before the Houses of Congress, it took considerably longer than the present hearings can possibly take.

The House Appropriations committee has been sitting far longer on the appropriations bill which, according to published reports, is still a long way from being ready for report.

THERE IS ONE important difference, a difference which has never obtained, so far as I can learn, in any legislative committee hearing: cross-examination by those who are not members of the committee nor its counsel. This, it is said, was at McCarthy's basic insistence before the hearings began.

I recall objecting to that procedure, years ago, on my first visit to the city council of Chicago, representing the Church Federation and the Presbyterian church. One makes a statement, the committee may ask questions (and frequently does), but the maker of the statement may not question any misstatement by committee members, may not inquire as to procedure, nor say anything beyond the compass of his prepared remarks and in answer to questions.

The real business of all legislative bodies in our country is done in committee rooms. If you are concerned about executive sessions on the television, you must realize that, as far as you and I are concerned, our tax bills, our selective service bills, and all other laws which affect us might almost as well have been written in executive session as far as our direct knowledge of their preparation is concerned.

IF YOU ARE watching, watch these men and try to recognize the principle of operation which is involved. That committee has some good men on it. In fact, most men in Congress seem pretty sharp in the committee room. Senator Snort is a travesty on the American Congressman — most of us know it and that is why we appreciate him. There is a good bit of political "window-dressing" for public consumption in speeches on the floor, but there is a great deal of genuine concern for the good of the country in committee rooms.

And if ye need any conosolation as the T. V. hearings go on: there may be some remarks about "whitewash" from some parties—but no one has yet suggested "purge," "liquidation," "kangaroo court," or "star chamber." The heart of the country is still basically sound.

Donald Duck Leads Sales Of Wholesome Comic Books

Important research into the comic book reading and buying habits of children and adults conducted by the world's largest publisher of newsstand periodicals and giant of the comic book industry, reveals that every minute of every working eight-hour day of every year, more than 3,000 men, women, and children walk up to a newsstand and buy a comic book.

This incredible circulation, adding to more than 30,000,000 comic books a month by this one manufacturer, was brought out to show that the American mother and child prefer "good" comics rather than crime or horror types exposed in the recent Hendrickson (R., N. J.) Senate subcommittee hearings.

BECAUSE OF the unfair connotation of the recent hearings which tend to degrade all comic books instead of the small minority of crime and horror trash, the Dell publishing company released its confidential facts and figures.

Average sale per issue is 800,000. Crime and horror trash of other companies sell about one-fourth that circulation.

THE COMPANY publishes 90 comic book titles, and of the first 25 largest selling magazines on the newsstands - including Ladies Home Journal, Life, Saturday Evening Post, etc. - 11 titles are Dell comics, with Walt Disney's Donald Duck the leader with sales of almost 2,000,000 per issue.

Other comic books which range from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 are:

Walt Disney's Comics, Warner Bros. Bugs Bunny, Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse, Warner Bros. Looney Tunes & Merrie Melodies, Porky Pig, Walter Lantz' Woody Woodpecker, Marge's Little Lulu, and MGM's Tom and Jerry.

Danes Are Realistic! Use Pills To Kill One's Taste For Love

by BILL DILLINGHAM

It is now possible to buy Love Killer Tablets.

A chemist in Copenhagen is manufacturing pills that are designed to "kill that love".

The tablets are for use by people who are involved in romantic affairs that they can't escape from. If a man doesn't want to break his girl friend's heart, he merely swallows one of these tablets and his resulting bad breath is so foul that even his own mother would abandon him!

THE DANISH public is the first in Europe — perhaps even the world! — to have the assistance of chemistry in solving this particular romantic problem. The manufacturer explains that every human being as some time in his life is involved in a one-sided love affair. "It is the human thing to do", he says, "to swallow a Love Killer".

In an interview, the chemist explained some of the drawbacks that his new business venture entailed. He said that people are reluctant to buy his product because they are too egotistical. They say that they want to spare their mate's feelings and avoid a sudden painful departure, but at the same time they don't like to do anything to blemish the wonderful impression they have made. Love Killers, he says, do more than blemish; they make a person a close brother to a decaying disease.

MOST PEOPLE'S ego, he explains, make it difficult for them to use the Love Killers. Advertisement, however, is expected to overcome this obstacle. As soon as his product is nationally known and perhaps even a point to laugh at in Danish humor, then people will use the tablets while feeling that they have a good excuse to do so.

A girl, for instance, can explain to her ailing partner that she has just taken a Love Killer and that she will continue to do so on all of their future dates. She can tell him it is for his own good.

ON THE QUESTION of Love Killers being used to influence a partner toward divorce, the manufacturer claims that they are not sold for this purpose. Their use, like any medicine, should be directed toward helping and not hurting people.

The tablets come in a tubular bottle that cost eighty-cents for twenty. Directions explain that one tablet should be taken a few minutes before a date and dissolved in the mouth like a piece of hard candy. Every two hours during the date — if it lasts that long — the purchaser should take another tablet.

There is an unconditional guarantee with every bottle that if one's mate is still interested after several dates and the twenty tablets have been used, then the person must be after your money — because it couldn't be love!

Illinois TAX FACTS

By George Mahin, Executive Secretary, Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois

The people in the cities of Illinois are now reaping the bitter harvest sown by their policemen and firemen at the last session of the Illinois general assembly.

Springfield policemen and firemen, in uniform, haunted the galleries of the Illinois house and senate, buttonholed the legislators in the lobbies and corridors. Aided by pressure from policemen and firemen in other cities throughout the State, backed by organized labor, they were successful in passing their minimum salary bills.

Now, in Springfield, 19 policemen and 19 firemen are scheduled to be laid off May 1. Garbage collectors and other employees are on strike, demanding comparable salary increases. Hours of work of policemen are to be lengthened, municipal services are to be curtailed.

The people in the cities, the members of the general assembly, and the policemen and firemen themselves were warned of the inevitable consequences in "The Watchdog" of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois of June 12, 1953, which said that, if the bills passed guaranteeing minimum salaries to policemen and firemen come what may of at least $300 a month in municipalities of 5,000 to 25,000 population, $325 a month in municipalities of 25,000 to 75,000 and $350 a month in cities over 75,000 except Chicago—

"THEN MUNICIPALITIES will have demands from other employees for similar salary treatment. Then the aid-to-cities revenue measures already enacted will not meet the increased costs imposed upon a number of cities— such as Springfield—no one knows how many. Then, in such cities, policemen and firemen will be fired—or other employees; hours of work will be lengthened for those kept, or services curtailed."

* * *

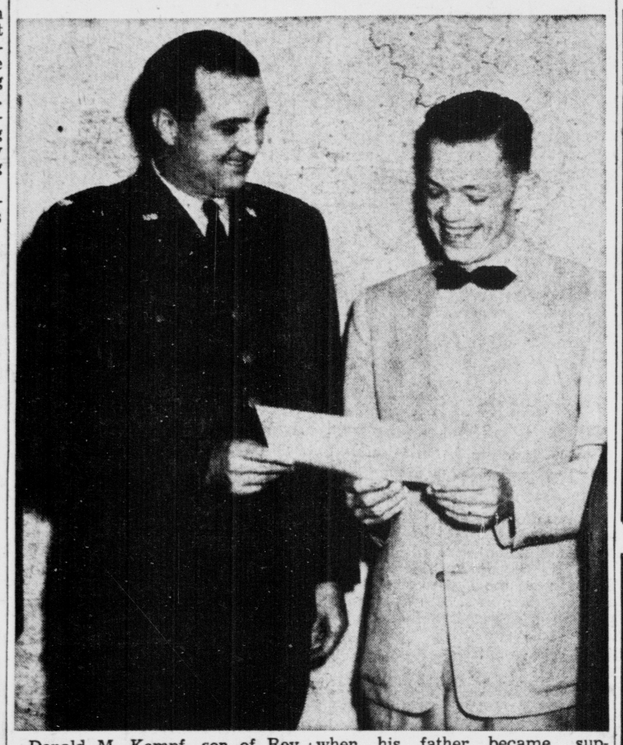

THE PEOPLE in the city are the ones who will suffer because the general assembly gave the policemen and firemen what they asked for.

Glenview To Vote On New Grade School

The board of education of school district 34, Glenview, recently announced a referendum election to be held Saturday, June 5, for the purpose of securing approval to build an additional school on the Harrison st. property. The board holds an option to purchase this property subject to voter approval.

After studying the problem of providing additional space for several months, the board has decided upon recommending the construction of the new school immediately to relieve the over crowded condition in the present Rugen school attendance area. School enrollments continue to increase at the rate of 200 annually.

DESIGN FOR LIVING

Building - Remodeling - Improving

Build New Home To Use, Not Fight Nature

Orientation And Site Planning Are Important

To get the most in living comfort and economy out of your new home careful consideration should be given to orientation and site planning before you build, according to Otto F. Wenzler, architectural consultant of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company.

"The modern home, built with modern materials," Mr. Wenzler said, "can be constructed and oriented to put nature to work as part of the house's cooling and heating system."

TWO PRIMARY factors in orienting the house, according to Mr. Wenzler, are the ascent and desent of the sun's path across the sky as seasons change and the direction of prevailing summer breezes.

Mr. Wenzler explained that in this hemisphere the sun follows a path across the sky close to the southern horizon throughout the day during the cold winter months. In summer the sun is north of the equator and rides high in the sky.

HERE, ACCORDING to the architectural consultant, is how to capitalize on this phenomenon and actually put the sun to work helping to heat your home:

1. Orient the house so that the large Thermopane-glazed windows face south.

2. Build a roof extension or overhang above the large windows. (Since the sun's path varies according to latitude the width of the overhang should be determined by an architect or competent builder.)

3. Properly insulate the roof and walls and install insulated windows so as to guard against excessive heat loss in winter and heat gain in summer.

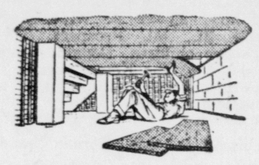

Proper orientation includes careful planning of the house's position in relation to the seasonal positions of the sun. By facing the large glass areas to the south and shielding them with a roof extension, the welcome winter sun, low in the southern sky, is admitted but the high summer sun is excluded.

As Mr. Wenzler exlained it, here is the way the properly oriented house then works. The low winter sun shines in through the southern windows most of the day. The sun's rays warm the walls, floors and furniture and re-radiated heat warms the air inside the house. If the house is properly insulated and the windows glazed with insulating glass, the heat is trapped indoors and supplements the artificial heating system.

In the summer, when the sun is high in the sky, Mr. Wenzler said, the roof extension over the southern windows acts as a visor and shades the windows from the direct rays of the sun, thus helping to keep the house cool.

To take advantage of the prevailing summer breezes for additional comfort, Mr. Wenzler recommended extensive use of ventilating windows, french doors and entranceways on the northern elevation. The northern side is also the best place to build the patio, since the house will help to shade it and it will be cooled by the northern breezes.

Landscaping and shade trees also play an important role in keeping the house comfortable, Mr. Wenzler said. The east and west sides of the house are difficult to protect from the summer sun. Even with a roof extension the morning sun will shine through east windows and the afternoon sun through the west.

PROPERLY PLANNED shade trees can solve this problem, according to Mr. Wenzler. In summer the shade trees shelter the east and west elevations and in winter when the trees are bare, the sun shines through the windows, bathing the interior in welcome warmth.

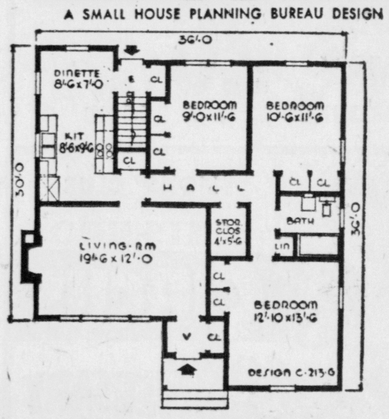

If the problem of solar heat gain in summer is particularly troublesome, Mr. Wenzler recommended the use of Thermopane with the outerpane made of heat absorbing glass, a special blue-green glass which absorbs more than half of the sun's radiant energy.

"It is wasteful to build homes in contradiction to the natural environment," Mr. Wenzler said. "Properly built and oriented the modern home is not only more comfortable but is actually cheaper to heat in winter and easier to cool in summer."

Chlorine, Too

To make a ton of chlorine requires 1 1/10 tons of coal.

Evergreen Tribe Has Largest Range Of Sizes

Members of the evergreen family probably offer a wider variety of sizes than any other form of life.

They range all the way from tiny dwarfs that never grow above six inches to giant sequoias more than 250 feet high.

The home owner who is hunting for decorative evergreens wants his of reasonable height, of course. So he should determine in advance from the seller how tall his prospective purchase may eventually grow.

The growth factor is but one of many things to consider in buying evergreens, advises tree expert Martin L. Davey, Jr.

Soil, sun, shade pruning requirements must also be given careful consideration.

For example, some evergreens need full sunlight for proper health and growth. Others can get along in varying degrees of shade. The fine textured type, such as yews and arborvitae, are easily pruned while those with coarse twigs and branches, such as firs and pines, usually are left untrimmed.

Northern residents, too, will want to pick evergreens that will withstand heavy, clinging snow and rugged winter weather.

In general, those evergreens which grow fast and easily are the least expensive. But sometimes they are also the least desirable, especially for foundation plantings. Price, Mr. Davey warns, should be the last consideration if evergreens are chosen for their lasting virtues.

First Sign Of Summer: Sprinkling Rules For Glenview

Restrictions on sprinkling were put into effect in Glenview Sunday, May 16, and will regulate sprinkling of lawns, trees, shrubs and flowers through the summer until October 14. Under Ordinance 956, occupants of premises bearing street addresses ending in odd numbers may sprinkle their lawns on odd numbered days while residents whose addresses end in even may sprinkle on even numbered days.

Hours for sprinkling will also be restricted as follows: from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 9:30 p.m. until 12 midnight. Violators of the ordinance will be fined from $5 to $100.

Easy Money Reaching Down To John Doe

The salaried individual or small businessman may sometines wonder exactly what the major decisions of fiscal policy have to do with him, as he reads of changing rediscount rates, short-term or long-term borrowing, excess reserves and the like.

Recent high-level fiscal decisions have driven down interest rates. Others have helped raise banks' deposits with the Federal Reserve System to some $400 million more than they are required by law to keep there.

What's the practical effect of this? Well, if you tried to buy a $20,000 house around Christmas time, and couldn't raise the $8,000 downpayment on which the banker insisted, run back now and offer him $4,000 down. Chances are he will see it your way, because if you have a mortgage outstanding, and it is low in proportion to the property's value, some insurance company may refinance it at better terms. "Easy money" does filter down to the citizen; it just takes a little while.

Q. If bread-and-butter plates are not provided, should the bread be held in one's hand to butter it, or laid down on the plate or table?

A. Hold it lightly on the rim of your dinner plate to butter it.

Closet Doors, Wall Space Made Into Unusual Vanity

Two bedroom closet doors with a space between can be turned into a luxurious three-way vanity by the clever use of plate glass mirrors, according to June Cabot, noted home stylist and television personality.

Miss Cabot, interior design consultant for Libbey Owens Ford glass company, explained that a door-length mirror on each closet door and a half-length mirror on the wall between forms a three-way vanity when the closet doors are partially opened.

"A small plate glass shelf mounted on steel brackets fixed to the wall beneath the half-length mirror," Miss Cabot said, "completes the vanity and gives the lady of the house a make-up and dressing table as fine as anything in Hollywood."

MISS CABOT said the three-way vanity helps assure complete and faultless grooming because hair, make-up and attire can be checked from all angles . . . sides, front and back.

Unframed door mirrors are easily attached with screws and plastic mirror clips available at most hardware stores and glass dealers' shops.

HERE IS Miss Cabot's advice on how to pick out a really fine mirror, one which will not be a disappointment to you when it is hanging in your home:

Stand off to the side of the mirror and look at it from an acute angle. If it is fine plate glass whose surfaces are parallel the mirror will reflect the images you see clearly. If the mirror is made of inferior plate glass, the non-parallel surfaces of the glass and other faults will distort the images it reflects when viewed at a sharp angle.

Louvers Keep House Cooler

Louver doors inside a house increase the efficiency of air-conditioning because air circulates more easily between rooms.

Another reason for the surge in popularity of louver doors and shutters in home interiors is that they can be decorated to suit any architectural style. They blend with any period of decoration because ponderosa pine wood effectively takes paint, varnish and stain treatments.

When the doors are used on closets, circulation of air through the louvers is a helpful deterrent against moths and musty smells.

A popular place for louver doors of ponderosa pine is between dining rooms and living roms, or as swinging doors between kitchen and dining areas. Another variation is to hang shutters inside picture windows where they increase the charm of the interior.

Cancer Donations

Figures reported at the third annual report luncheon meeting of the American cancer society, Illinois division, showed an increase of $276,031 over the $525,605 reported at the second luncheon held April 28.

Total contributions from the six units of the Illinois Division to date have reached $800,636 or 67% of the state's $1,200,000 goal.

About Your Health

When your feet ache, you ache all over. This statement may seem an exaggeration, but in theory it is true for tired, painful feet produce fatigue and painful sensations both mentally and physically, the educational committee of the Illinois state medical society observes.

Unless some abnormality exists, painful feet can be avoided by giving proper attention to the care of the feet. Proper attention can be described as the wearing of the right size and fitting shoes and hosiery; walking with the feet at their best mechanical advantage; careful cleansing of the feet, and the wearing of the right type of shoe for the various activites we call on our feet to perform.

MANY MINOR foot problems, which frequently become major comforts, can be prevented by proper shoes. One of these is the corn, which is a horny thickening of the skin caused by friction or pressure. The common locations for corns are on the skin covering the small joints of the toes. The most vulnerable spot is the little toe which, with improperly fitting shoes, is wedged between the leather of the shoe and the underlying bone. The result is pressure and friction, both of which can be avoided by wearing shoes of the proper size and shape.

Calluses are similar to corns in that they too are caused by pressure and friction, but a larger area of the skin is affected. Calluses occur most frequently on the sole of the foot or over the heel area. Again properly fitting shoes and hosiery will help prevent further progress in corn and callus formation.

BUNIONS, seen most commonly in women, develop from wearing shoes that are too short and too pointed. When the shoe does not correspond to the shape of the foot the resultant squeezing of the toes causing the great toe to be cramped and bent, may result in a bunion.

Foot strain can be overcome with comfortable and well fitting shoes. Very often special arch supports or pads may be required, but these should not be selected at random by an individual, for they may produce even further strain. Contrast foot baths help to relieve foot strain. These consist of either soaking or spraying the foot or ankle for one minute with warm water and one minute with cool water. The procedure should be carried on for a least fifteen minutes morning and evening. The feet should then be dried thoroughly. A simple dusting powder can be used. In persons with dry skins, massaging the feet with an oily cream is helpful.

Report Decline In TB Deaths Amorg GIs

A 40 percent drop in tuberculosis deaths among World War II veterans from 1948 to 1952, inclusive, was reported by veterans administration.

VA said provisional data for 1953 indicates a further decline for that year.

Several factors in VA's tuberculosis control program brought about the sharp drop.

ONE WAS the new methods of treatment for tuberculosis, with VA, the army and navy introducing the controlled chemotherapy program in 1946.

The other was the extensive TB case-finding survey program begun in 1948 in all VA hospitals and outpatient clinics.

These factors, plus the decline of tuberculosis deaths in the general population, are credited with the 40 per cent drop in TB deaths among World War Two veterans, Dr Schneider said.

THIS DECLINE is all the more dramatic when weighed against the steady rise in the TB mortality rate among World War Two veterans that started with the beginning of the war.

In 1946, VA began its extensive chemotherapy program for the treatment of tuberculosis with the new miracle drugs that were being developed then, the first of which was streptomycin. In 1948, VA initiated its central tuberculosis register as part of its far flung TB case-finding program.

From 12 TB deaths per 100,000 World War Two veterans in 1946, the rate dropped to 10.8 in 1948 and has been continuously downward since then, dropping to 6.2 deaths per 100,000 in 1952, with a further decline indicated for 1953.

Modern Etiquette

by ROBERTA LEE....

Q. I am a member of a group of church women who, after a meeting, usually stop somewhere for a bite to eat. Since I don't eat between meals, all I ever order is coffee. However, the bill is always divided equally among us. Do you think this is fair?

A. No; but there's nothing much you can do about it without appearing "close." The best solution is to order nothing at all — then you can hardly be asked to share the bill.

Q. I see more and more people cutting their bread or rolls at the table with a knife. Is this now considered proper?

A. No. Good behavior still says that bread, rolls and the like should be broken into small pieces and each one buttered as it is eaten.

Q. How should one address a wedding gift?

A. Gifts sent before the wedding are addressed to the bride in her maiden name. Gifts sent after the wedding, of course, are addressed to the couple.

Q. If a man, who has no car, has a date with a girl who drives her own car, does she drive him to his home at the end of the evening and then drive to her home alone, or should he see her home and then take public transportation?

A. Inconvenient though it may seem, the proper thing for the man to do is to go home with her and then take public transportation to his home.

Q. If the national anthem is played in a moving picture house, should the audience rise?

A. If it is played as part of the picture, you do not rise. But if it is played separately, you most certainly do rise.

Q. At a beauty parlor recently three different persons worked on me—one cutting my hair, another washing it, and the third setting it. Should I have tipped each one separately?

A. The correct percentage o your entire bill should have been divided into three tips.

Q. Isn't it rude and ill-bred for a bride to wait until she returns from a month's honeymoon to acknowledge her wedding gifts?

A. Yes These gifts should be acknowledged the day received. Those received at the last moment can be acknowledged while away.

Q. I thanked each donor personally for gifts received at a surprise birthday party. Am I supposed also to write thank-you notes?

A. No.

Anhydrous Ammonia Safe Fertilizer When Used Properly On All Local Farms

One of the state college farm specialists, who works to make farm jobs safe, has said farmers "need not be afraid" of anhydrous ammonia.

Norval J. Wardle, Iowa State college, believes it is a safe fertilizer if a few common sense precautions are taken. In May Capper's Farmer, Wardle lists some recommended safety rules to follow when handling anhydrous ammonia:

1. Be sure all anhydrous ammonia equipment meets specifications required. Many states have set up requirements. Elevate and locate storage tanks away from buildings in the direction of prevailing winds. Ground the tank for lightning protection.

2. KEEP OPEN flames and welding sparks away from this area.

3. Have equipment tested and serviced by a reputable dealer.

4. Never fill tanks beyond 85 per cent of water capacity. This allows for expansion and a pressure cushion. High pressure may be reduced by sprinkling the tank with water or shading it.

5. Never tamper with "pop-off" valve. Always drain hose after use.

6. Ten pounds pressure differential is adequate when transferring ammonia.

7. KEEP AT LEAST 5 gallons of clean water available for flushing accidental burns. Continue the flushing for 15 minutes. Call a doctor for serious burns. Never apply salves or ointments within 24 hours of the injury.

8. Avoid inhaling gas or letting liquid contact the eyes, skin, or clothing. If a person is overcome by ammonia fumes, remove immediately to an uncontaminated area, apply artificial respiration and call a doctor. Speed is important.

9. Provide ammonia gas mask, rubber gloves, goggles and first-aid equipment. Always wear goggles and rubber gloves when transferring ammonia. Use the mask when there is danger of gas.

1953 CORN KING

A good crop rotation system and farm management program helped Charles Bender of Beason win the Illinois Corn Crown for 1953. He produced 157.26 bushels of corn per acre in the 1953 National Selected 5-Acre DeKalb Corn Growing Contest—topping the yields of 624 other Illinois contestants whose average yield was 106.11 bushels per acre.

Bender planted his Selected 5-acre contest field May 10th after the usual seed bed preparation. This field had previously been in pasture.

Proper Fly Control Means Cheaper Gains

Easier fly control and faster, cheaper gains are problems facing every live stock producer during the busy summer season.

Tests conducted in the summer of 1953 indicated a mixture of 5% DDT and 0.03% lindane used with a back-rubber for beef cattle required little labor other than replenishing the solution, and satisfactory results were obtained.

IN ONE OF the tests the addition of another material, Crag's Fly Repellent, gave even better control of flies. This repellent, polyethylene glycol, is a solvent for DDT, lindane and other similar materials. As it does not evaporate like many other carriers, it tends to keep the insecticide mixture in a moist, usable state. Further tests with this are being conducted this year.

For controlling flies around beef cattle barns, sprinkle the sunlit areas on the concrete floors with BHC; a 10% gamma does a good job in controlling the flies. Since BHC is prohibited in dairy barns, Cuff suggests the use of lindane mixed with sugar dusted on Window ledges or sills to control flies.

Plant Within Allotments To Be Eligible For Corn Price Support

Corn producers in the commercial corn area are again reminded they must comply with the 1954 corn acreage allotments in order to be eligible for corn price support.

"With corn planting now in full swing this matter should be given some final consideration", advised Carl M. Bormet, Chairman of the local ASC office. "The 1954 corn crop is not under marketing quotas as in the case of wheat, so there is no direct penalty on corn", he said, "but farmers will lose price support eligibility if they fail to plant according to their allotments."

IN SOME INSTANCES a producer will have an interest in the corn crop on more than one farm located in the commercial corn area. (All counties in Illinois are in this area except Williamson.) In these instances the following rules apply:

(1) If all farms are planted within the allotment, the producer will be eligible on all farms.

(2) If one or more of the farms are overplanted:

A. The producer will not be eligible on the overplanted farm or farms.

b. The producer will be eligible on farms planted within the allotment provided there is sufficient underplantings so that his share of the overplantings on all farms do not exceed his share of the underplantings on all farms. (If his share of overplantings exceeds his share of underplantings, the producer is not eligible on any farm.)

FARMERS SHOULD also keep in mind that they will not be penalized under future allotment programs if they fail by some small amount (not more than 10%) to plant their full allotted acreage. Secretary Benson has announced that any farmer planting between 90 and 100% of his corn allotment will be treated in future programs as if the allotment were fully planted on the farm in 1954.

In other words, if 90% of the allotment can be planted in whole fields on a given farm there is no reason to split another field just to round out the allotment.

Captan Controls Strawberry Gray Mold Rot On Plants

Spraying with Captan will control gray mold rot of strawberries and increase both yield and size of the berries.

In tests last summer at the University of Illinois, Captan treated strawberries yielded 193 crates to the acre compared with 109 crates for untreated strawberries averaged 92 berries per quart compared with 123 for the untreated.

Dwight Powell, University plant disease specialist, says gray mold rot is always present, even on weeds and crops other than strawberries.

Powell recommends at least three sprays. Spray first when the plants first bloom, and then spray about every ten days. If your plants have already bloomed, spray as soon as you can, and then spray every ten days until harvest.

Put on about five pounds of 50 per cent Captan per acre at each spraying. For a small planting, mix a tablespoon of 50 per cent Captan in one gallon of water, and soak the strawberry plants thoroughly.

Cold Weather Slows Planting Of Corn

The first week of May saw very little corn planted because of wet fields and low temperatures over most of the corn belt. Heavy rains in many areas over the May 1 week-end went a long way toward ending drought apprehensions in most areas. The law of averages finally caught up with the most moisture deficient areas as they received the most rain.

But the unusual feature of the week's weather was the cold temperatures following this widespread rain front. Experience with corn planting temperatures is that a soil temperature of 60 degrees is necessary for quick and vigorous germination. Corn planted at low soil temperatures will germinate slowly and is more subject to insect damage and seedling diseases.

Farmers To Attend Dairy Promotion Meeting May 24

Cook county farmers, homemakers, and farm and home bureau representatives will attend a special dairy promotion meeting May 24, at 7:30 p.m. at the farm bureau building at Geneva, Charles Erickson, president of Cook county farm bureau has announced.

The meeting will be one of ten held throughout the state May 24-28 to discuss local plans for participating in a campaign to increase consumption of dairy products in Illinois.

DAIRY PROGRAM was initiated by the Illinois Agricultural Association, statewide Farm Bureau organization, to help alleviate dairy surpluses, promote better health, and bring about better business for the entire dairy industry without depending upon the federal government, President Erickson said.

Suggested local programs, patterned after successful ones carried out by other states, will be discussed at the meeting. The group will also make plans for meetings in each county to carry out these programs.

ACCORDING TO IAA president Charles B. Shuman, some of the goals of the campaign will be:

1. To introduce milk service into all downstate schools
2. To bring milk service into local factories
3. To cause more milk products to be served in restaurants
4. To bring consumers information about the nutritional value of Milk.

Mr. Erickson urges all dairy farmers to attend this meeting.

FFA Places Third In Sectional Livestock Judging Contest

Bernie Weidner, a freshman in his first judging contest, took third place to lead the Arlington Heights high school Future Farmers of America team to third place in the sectional livestock judging contest May 13.

Donald Drews, a sophomore, placed eighth, and the third member of the team, Ronald Schultz, was unplaced.

All 15 schools in the section were represented in the contest, which was held at the Topsalo Farm, near Spring Grove, Ill. Some recently imported Aberdeen Angus cattle were among the stock judged.

Milk Queens On TV

Six pretty candidates for queen of the 1954 Harvard milk day celebraton will appear on the "Farmtown, U. S. A." television show Sunday, May 23.

Each candidate will appear with a small dairy calf to symbolize the dairy theme of Milk Day, which is slated for June 5. The large milk cans which are used to collect the popular votes for queen will also be shown.

Watch For Young Plants In Pasture; May Poison Cattle

Look your pasture over before you turn your animals out this spring. You may find poisonous plants that your stock might eat before the grass and legumes put on much growth.

Dr. R. P. Link of the college of veterinary medicine at the University of Illinois says you may find these "killer" plants in ditches and gullies. Poisonous plants also grow along the roadside and fencerows, in wooded areas, beds of dry ponds, overflow land and open pastures.

PULL SCATTERED plants out while they are young, Dr. Link suggests, or you can use a chemical weed killer. Fence off areas that are over-run with the plants until you have a chance to mow and burn the weeds before they form seeds.

Plant-poisoned animals are usually listless, lose weight, have a hard time breathing, become bloated and may have convulsions. Many diseases also cause these same symptoms, so you'll want to call your veterinarian as quickly as you can after these symptoms appear.

POISONOUS PLANTS include young cocklebur seedlings, water and poison hemlock, jack-in-the-pulpit, pokeberry, larkspur, buttercup, Dutchman's breeches, oak leaves, and black locust and Ohio buckeye sprouts, leaves, pods and seeds.

You can learn to identify poisonous plants. Write to the college of agriculture, Urbana, for Circular 599, "Illinois plants Poisonous to Livestock." This booklet describes and pictures more than 40 of these plants.

Proper Gas Storage Safer And Cheaper

A good gasoline storage setup on your farm will not only be safer, but it will save fuel.

Wendell Bowers, University of Illinois agricultural engineer, says a lot of fuel evaporates before you get a chance to burn it. Keeping the tanks in an unshaded place can triple losses. And having too big a tank—one that holds more than 15 working day's supply—boosts losses even more.

Don't shade your tank by putting it in a building, though. Bowers says a roof set on posts is best, because it allows air to circulate around the tanks and carry away the dangerous vapors.

Profit grows where water flows . . . More than just slogan, farmers find

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

"Profit grows where water flows." That's been the slogan of the water systems people for some time. It's more than a catchy phrase, and more than an idea to make all of us install running water on the farm. If you don't think so, just reflect for a moment on the fact that milk is 87% water; eggs 73%; lean meat, 70%, and vegetables from 80 to 90%. Then consider what you produce on your farm. Makes sense doesn't it?

The installation on an electric pressure water system should be thought of as an investment for greater profit on the farm and as convenience and health measures in the home. Without an adequate water supply, cows drink about 15 gallons a day, but when they can get all they want—and need—they'll drink as much as 35 gallons a day. Over a year's period a flock of only 100 hens will drink around 1,500 gallons of water, and just four hogs will consume 9,000 gallons annually. It's hard to imagine, but each member of the farm family uses over 25 gallons of water a day just for personal needs—and we haven't figured in wash day and kitchen requirements. All of this means that when you plan your water system, do it carefully. Be sure that the pump and pipes are large enough to deliver all of the water required. Have your system designed to keep pressure drop less than 10%.

Also, you should be forehanded in determining an adequate source. A farm pond in the Plains States may be the answer to supplement well and spring water. Power suppliers and Extension Service specialists will help you in planning a pond and will advise on pumping and purifying requirements. Farmers in hilly or mountainous areas might consider an idea worked out successfully by some far western ranchers. They construct catch basins to capture rainfall when it is most abundant. Pipes bring the water by gravity to a central location from where it is pumped to buildings and other places where it is needed. Again, if rain or run-off water is used for drinking purposes, either by people or stock, or for washing and cleaning chores in the farm homes it must be purified by some means. Wells, too, must be located properly to avoid contamination from farmstead and household wastes. It pays to plan wisely, particularly since you will have your water system for a long time and because its use—for all purposes—will "cost" you only some 20 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month.

MOUNTAIN CATCH BASINS—capture and store rainfall for later use in California.

Should Hitch Implements To Tractor Drawbar For Safety

Always hitch trailing implements to the drawbar to prevent your tractor from tipping backward.

The farmer who ignores this advice may not get a chance to correct his error, says Wendell Bowers, University of Illinois farm machinery specialist. When a tractor tips backward, it often crushes the driver or pins him down. Spilled fuel catching on fire is an additional danger.

MODERN TRACTORS are designed so they'll stall or lose traction before they'll tip backward if implements are hitched to the drawbar Bowers says. But hitching to the axle around the power lift or to any point above the drawbar destroys this safety feature.

Often, improperly hitched machinery won't cause the tractor to tip backwards until you get into tough pulling or head uphill. When a tractor tips, things happen so quickly you seldom have a chance to reach the clutch.

Pruning And Spraying Can Save Fruit Trees

Thorough pruning and a Bordeaux mixture are your best weapons for fighting fire blight on your apple and pear trees.

Dwight Powell, plant pathology specialist, University of Illinois college of agriculture, recommends using pruning shears to remove twigs and branches from which the disease spreads.

TO REDUCE early infection and prevent a new one, apply Bordeaux spray when the first blossoms appear. Powell suggests a mixture of 1 ounce of copper sulphate (bluestone or blue vitriol) and 3 ounces of hydrated lime in 6 gallons of water. Spray twice, four days apart. Powell suggests using this spray during good drying weather, because Bordeaux may cause resseting of fruit.

You can easily identify fire blight. It is the only disease of apples and pears that causes the ends of twigs and branches to die. You will also see a sticky mass on the infected branches, caused by an overflow of bacteria inside the twig. The bacteria hits the blossoms as well as the twigs and branches. When that happens, blossoms start to turn brown and die.

NEARLY ALL varieties of pears and apples in Illinois are likely to get fire blight. Of the apples, Willow Twig, Jonathan, Rome Beauty and Transparent apples and Transcendent crabapples are most likely to be infected. Bartlett is the most susceptible pear variety.

Powell warns that heavy applications of nitrogen will increase susceptibility to blight infection, although it might promote tree vigor. Manure or a complete fertilizer with low nitrogen content is therefore most satisfactory for apples and pears.

Hog Sale To Drop For Awhile, But Recover Sharply In Fall

Iowa and Northern Illinois farmers will sell fewer hogs in the next two to three months than they did a year ago, a survey of nearly 600 farmers in the area reveals. On the other hand, considerably more hogs will be sold during fall and winter this year than in the corresponding period a year ago.

The farms surveyed represent an area in which one-third of all hogs in the United States are produced. This second report on hog marketing intentions is based on a quarterly survey conducted by Iowa State college in cooperation with the Chicago Union stock yards.

PROJECTED MARKETINGS — based on pigs born, sows bred and stated breeding intentions — indicate that May, June and July sales of barrows and gilts from Iowa and Northern Illinois farms probably will be about one-fourth below a year earlier.

August sales of barrows and gilts will be in line with a year ago. The Chicago Stock Yards survey indicated that these sales will be augmented by sharply higher sales of packing sows in July and August, the result of increased spring farrowings.

Hog marketings in the last four months of 1954 will be up sharply—probably by 30 per cent. The increased marketings will continue into early 1955.

THE SURVEY showed farrowings increased sharply last winter and this spring. A good share of the increased farrowings are accounted for by the small size hog enterprises. Farms with less than 10 litters last spring reflected an 88 per cent increase in 1954 spring farrowings. Farmers that had 10 to 19 sows farrowing in 1953 increased their 1954 spring farrowings by 19 per cent. Those with over 20 sows increased their farrowings by only five per cent.

Many of the larger hog raisers who had sows farrowing in March last year shifted to January and February farrowings this year. They also shifted May litters up to April this year. This change in farrowings will show up in the fall marketing pattern. This means that we can expect late August and September sales to increase. Also, these hogs will be pushed to market at light weights this fall.

FARMERS with less than 10 sows in 1953 will increase farrowings substantially in May. It will be November before receipts increase appreciably for this source.

A more detailed report of the Survey may be obtained by writing the Chicago Union Stock Yards, Room 116, Exchange Building, Chicago 9, Illinois.

Laurelle Hasselmann Named State Vegetable Queen, Too

Miss Laurelle Hasselmann of Touhy avenue and Wolf road has been selected as the 1954 vegetable queen by the Illinois state vegetable growers association it was announcd this week by Elmer J. Steil, chairman of the local Cook county group who handled the Cook County contest.

Miss Hasselmann was first selected as Cook county vegetable queen and her entry was submitted to the Illinois state vegetable growers association where the selection was made for state queen. She now will be eligible to compete for the title of national vegetable queen.

NATIONAL QUEEN will be selected at the annual convention of the vegetable growers association of America in Syracuse, New York the first week in December. Miss Hasselmann will be sent to this convention in Syracuse to represent the state of Illinois.

Laurelle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hasselmann, who operate a vegetable and mushroom farm on Touhy Avenue near Wolf road, and has had much experience in the growing, harvesting and preparing for market the vegetables produced on her father's farm. It is expected she will take part in radio and television programs during national vegetable week to be held in August.

Be Sure Pipe Lines Are Deep Enough On Farms

"Some inquiries have been made recently by members of the North Cook county soil conservation district in regard to the proposed pipe lines running through this area," states Emil Hattendorf, Chairman of the District.

The soil conservation district does not oppose construction of the line in any manner or form, but it would like to advise farmers in this district to make sure the line is laid deep enough so as not to interfere with future soil conservation practices.

LOW AREAS will be drained in the future and a shallow pipe line may obstruct an efficient drainage project.

The trend has also been toward subsoiling the high ground and if the lines are less than 4 feet from the surface it might also hinder this phase of a good land use program.

Terracing on hill sides might also be prevented by too shallow a pipe line.

WE WERE INFORMED the contracts call for a minimum of 2 feet covering on the pipe which would certainly obstruct many good land use practices.

The North Cook county soil conservation district suggests at least a 3 feet covering be provided for all pipe lines being constructed now, or in the future.

Raw Sewage From Highland Park Area Polluting Skokie Lagoons

The Skokie lagoons, which have afforded some of the best fishing in Cook county, are being badly polluted by sewage, according to a report submitted by the Cook county clean streams committee to William N. Erickson, president of the board of forest preserve commissioners.

These seven lagoons total 190 acres of water extending from Willow road to Dundee road in the forest preserves east of Edens Expressway. They are fed by Skokie river, the east fork of the North branch of the Chicago river and extends north through Lake county to a swamp west of Waukegan.

The Chicago river watershed subcommittee, found that in a subdivision west of Fort Sheridan, in Highand Park, the main sewer has disintegrated so badly that it was disconnected from the sewage treatment plant of the North Shore sanitary district at Half Day road. The raw sewage now empties directly into Skokie river. From 300 to 600 new homes were scheduled for construction in that subdivision this year but Highland Park officials have refused to issue building permits until sewers are rebuilt and properly connected to the treatment plant.

Weeds Can Be Costly If Allowed To Grow Wild In The Cornfield

Weeds can lower corn yields 6 to 8 bushels an acre, even in cornfields farmers would call "pretty clean." One authority has said weeds cost an average of $500 a year on a corn belt farm.

Corn can't compete with weeds. Uncontrolled, they use excessive light, moisture and fertility, and rob farms just as if a thief backed a truck up to the crib and swiped a load of corn, or took bags of fertilizer.

Fortunately, farmers have a host of tools for cheap, effective weed control that will increase corn yields, May Capper's Farmer said. The secret lies in using the right tool at the right time.

ACCORDING TO E. P. Sylwester, Iowa State college weed specialist, there are five basic steps in good weed control. He said growers should build on these cultural practices, but be ready "with a chemical attack" to supplement them:

1. Good seedbed preparation is of first importance. Work soil prior to planting to kill millions of weeds. Harrow and wait for a new crop of weeds to sprout, then harrow again. Plant right after the final harrowing.

2. Plant for capacity stand and apply enough fertilizer. These two practices help squeeze out weeds. When weeds are controlled, fertilizer will get the corn off to faster, more vigorous early growth. This makes early shade and stiff competition with weeds for moisture and fertility.

3. HARROW AFTER the corn is planted and before it comes up. This practice kills more newly sprouted weeds, helps save time and money by delaying the need for cultivation until corn is good sized.

4. Substitute a rotary hoe or harrow for the cultivator while corn is small.

5. When cultivating work shallow. That's best for two reasons: it doesn't prune corn roots as badly as deep cultivation or turn up deeply buried weed seed which may sprout and cause trouble after your last cultivation.

Suppose the weeds are still way ahead. That's the time to call on chemicals. County agent or state weed authority can recommend chemical measures for use all through the growing season.

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

A fellow goes out in the yard, takes a look at the flower border and sees new, tender shoots reaching eagerly upward for light and air. Each morning new birds appear in the tree tops, and swoop down to investigate the bird baths and the different bushes which still bear seed pods. Their quick eyes, their furtive actions portray how eagerly they await the advent of the mating season, and already mating calls and songs are heard all around. Bees, humming busily around the crocuses and daffodils, are on the job or replenishing their shrunken food supplies.

Well sir, that does something to you. You saunter in to the basement and look over the tools; check over the seed; and place an order for fertilizer and seeds which makes a big dent in your next pay check which, for some reason, you never seem to mind.

THAT'S THE WAY spring is — a renewing of life which has come on schedule since the beginning of time. Life through the winter has been pretty drab, even various sorts of parties and entertainment having become by now tiresome and artificial. But spring—that is real. It brings purpose to living, eager anticipation of the good times ahead, courage to face the future. People are friendlier, ready to stop and visit. Cares that brought frowns and irritability through the winter, worries that caused sleepless nights, seem to pass away as faces are decorated anew in smiles of happiness.

Sometimes I think of prayers as being like spring. A fellow gets down on his knees, laden with worries, defeat, bitterness, weariness and disappointment, and then, like the warm sunshine of spring, God speaks and those problems disappear. People need springtime to cheer their hearts, to give them promise and hope, to bring them closer to the world they live in and the source of eternal springtime; and people need prayers to bring them the joy of forgiveness, the promise of eternity, and the assurance of faith. Prayers and springtime go together.

Arlington Heights Safety Campaign

CHECK YOUR CAR, CHECK ACCIDENTS!

On Memorial Day the nation's most skilled drivers, operating crack racing cars, will again meet in the famous Indianapolis Speedway race.

In this grueling event, both cars and drivers will be tested to the utmost and many of them will probably drop out before the race is over.

Of the thirty-three cars that started in last year's race, twenty-five failed to finish.

It is true that some drivers took calculated risks in trying to win the race, and they soon found out that driving skill alone has definite limits when up against the hazards of speed conditions.

But most of the cars were knocked out of the race by mechanical failures. Those machines are specially built to take it. They get exceptional care from experts. They are driven by real pros who know their own and the car's limitations. And yet many fail to finish, because the best machine ever built by human hands is subject to failure when put under extreme strain.

Passenger cars, too, are built to last. And they'll usually take plenty of wear and perform safely if watched closely, kept in top condition, and driven by people who recognize mechanical limitations and keep well within them. But they won't perform well or safely if they're abused.

It is the aim of the current community-wide vehicle maintenance program to encourage all Arlington Heights drivers to keep their cars in safe driving condition and to drive within their own and their car's limitations. This is the only intelligent way to handle an automobile.

Can YOU see, steer and stop safely? Check your car, check accidents!

Visit our VEHICLE SAFETY MAINTENANCE CHECK LANES, during the evenings of Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings, May 19, 20 and 21. These lanes will be operated by qualified mechanics who will check your vehicle without cost or obligation, and a Safety Sticker will be issued to all who pass the 10-point maintenance check.

About 6 per cent of the vehicles involved in fatal traffic accidents during 1952 had one or more unsafe conditions.

Of the unsafe conditions —

About one-third were unsafe brakes.

About one-sixth were blowouts and other tire defects.

About one-sixth were improperly adjusted or burned-out lights.

Check Your Car, Check Accidents. LET'S KEEP ARLington HEIGHTS STREETS SAFE THOROUGHFARES!

In The Future

If you are troubled with rawness in the middle of large baked potatoes, you can now buy an aluminum skewer with which to cook them from the inside out ... A wire fly swatter is embroidered with gay wool yarn to make sure this summer's bugs die esthetically ... Fabric for draperies comes already pinch-pleated, in a kit with weights, drapery hooks, needles and thread. Just whack it off to length, hem and hang ... Bolted truss construction, framing a building in arched steel beams with no supports in the middle, can now be had in a 100-foot span. Widest up to now has been 60 feet.

Bits O' Business

Seventy million yards of cotton cloth were sold in four days in New York last week. A similar buying rush signaled the end of the 1949 recession ... Wheat supply estimate of the Department of Agriculture rose to 707 million bushels ... Employment gains reflect planting season and the approach of vacation time, when resorts recruit staffs. Factory employment fell 260,000 in April ... Hides have become so cheap in U.S. packing centers that we are getting European trade that normally goes to Argentina, which generally exports hides not on to Europe but also to this country.

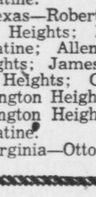

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

FROM PATTY McARDLE

Dear Peg:

As a true native-born Hoosier would say, "It's a most unusual day." Outside, a cold mist-filled wind is blowing and the sky is heavy with thick, gray clouds in which a ray of sun wouldn't have a chance. For a day in May, in the middle of Indiana, where everything is as lush and green as it is in the summer, where pink and green peony buds are just holding back until the last petals drop from the now fading tulips, and where the cherry blossoms have turned into hundreds of baby green cherries, it is truly a most unusual day!

We didn't realize when we went out riding this morning that it was so cold, but no sooner had we left the car and started to walk through the lovely gardens in Holiday Park, than "Nana" and I agreed the wind was too uncomfortably penetrating for Megan, Bridget, or us to enjoy any kind of a garden tour. So, we hurried back into the car and drove through the beautifully kept grounds, looking at the rows and rows of multi-colored tulips and the trees, of which there is to be found in the park at least, one of every obtainable species.

A PROMISE is a promise (especially when made to kiddies!) so despite wind and weather, we drove out to "Nana's" cottage — a rustic little cabin in the woods overlooking White River, about 10 miles north of Indianapolis. Although there is little to do there in the way of interesting activity during the winter and spring months, "Nana's" grandchildren love this place and consider it quite a treat just to be allowed to run free in the woods around the cottage and to have a "picnic" on the screened-in porch.

Imagine their delight this time to find the back yard growing thick with bright purple, wild larkspur, which "Nana" said they could pick to their heart's content! It was only because the mist turned to rain and we promised a return trip that we were able to coax the flower pickers into the car and return to Indianapolis.

WE WERE MOST disappointed to learn upon arriving in Indianapolis three days ago, that our favorite cousins, Dottie and Debbie, had chicken pox — that is Dottie had them and Debbie was on the catching end. We learned from the doctor, however, that Dottie would be over with it and safe to play with in a couple of days, so we are eagerly anticipating her visit soon.

I am driving over to Dayton, Ohio, tomorrow to visit our dear friends, Dot and Westi Hansen, with whom we had so many good times when they lived in Chicago and later spent grand week ends in Saginaw, Michigan, when they moved there. I know the road over to Dayton and, if the sun will just shine, am looking forward to driving through the little towns along the way and the beautiful rolling countryside of Indiana and Ohio. This will be a sort of "bonus" vacation for me, since Megan and Bridget will stay home with "Nana."

WE ALSO HAVE PLANNED a trip to great Grandmother's home in Spencer sometime around the end of the week. As is usually the case when we visit "Nana", we have about three weeks of activity to crowd into ten days! We'll probably do it though, and next Monday the girls and I shall start for home and our very-missed Daddy. Speaking of "Daddy" this is the telegram he sent to "Mommy" on Mother's Day (romantic telegrams have played an important part in our lives — this one is especially romantic):

"Happy Mother's Day dear. All your children surround you. It shouldn't be long 'til another one hounds you. Father."

No, he's not a poet, but quite a comedian, don't you think? Why, he had me laughing all Mother's Day. Well, Dad, here's one for you: Enjoy your vacation while we don't surround you, for soon we'll be home to once more hound you.

My love,
Patty.

QUITE CONTRARY

BY MARY

We are about to institute a book of etiquette for the door to door salesman. We got a peach the other day. As is so often the way, he came when we were right in the midst of some ghastly chore that we could not leave.

This did not stop junior from going through his whole bag of tricks which all boiled down to my subscribing to lots of magazines. Did he prance himself to our door and just out and out admit that he was selling magazine subscriptions? No. He started on how he was such a good kid and he only needed five hundred more points and he could go to Vassar or around the world or something.

All this spiel was accompanied by much shaking of shoulders and snapping of fingers. Someone had evidently told him to act as though St. Vitus dance had set in to create a sympathetic mood. It made us pretty jumpy, we thought our eyes had given out. Throughout this interesting if wearing act, not one little mention was made of the true purpose of the visit.

If we hadn't had a sneaking hunch that what was coming, was coming, we could have thought that the boys in the white coats would be along in a minute. By that time they could have taken both of us.

In vain we waited for him to come right out and admit that he wanted us to subscribe to the All-American Boy or something. We had to bring the matter to a head as time was running out and the washing machine had let us know that it was full of water and hungry for dirty clothes.

All we said was that we didn't want any magazines, and the final blow, we couldn't pay for them if we did want them. Lack of money seems to throw door to doors into a tizzy. As though a slate had been swiped clean, the happy smile was gone and depression had set in. We closed the door without regret and with some satisfaction. Work on our sympathies, will they?

Wonder when the Lombard lilac festival will be held? This is not a year for lilacs in our yard. We have one brave bush that has decided to keep us from being utterly discouraged. Seven bunches have made their appearance and we are grateful.

However, we feel that we must see more than this or spring will have lost its meaning. These great lilac trees that the older homes in town possess leave us green with envy. And, green is not our best color.

Itasca Situation

Like many a citizen of Itasca I have been concerned about the problem facing the community on the high school situation. And like many, have disliked seeing the community split on the issue. The problem of providing our young people with a high school would be difficult enough to solve by united effort. But it cannot be satisfactorily solved when one faction strongly opposes another to the point where any effort towards settlement is defeated by the strug-from within.

The two factions in Itasca have many differences of opinion, but they agree on two major points: (1) they both want the best education they can buy for Itasca's children, and (2) they would both like to see the community united behind the best plan. Obviously they do not agree on what the best plan is.

THE CORE of our difficulty lies in the fact that we are still split as a community while committed to support the convictions of the district, of which we are only a part. This was the mistake of the seven men Itasca elected to the high school board a year ago, on the campaign these men would "impartially report on each high school possibility, and let the voters decide the issue." Three of the seven joined District No. 108 and thereby pledged Itasca as a whole to the proposition supported by the district, before Itasca was ready to be pledged. None can say that if others had been elected, they would not have made the same mistake.

But the fact remains that Itasca is represented on the present District No. 108 board by 3 Itascans, that the district is committed to the project of building a new high school while Itasca is split on the problem. First things must come first. A community must settle such a problem before it becomes part of a district dedicated to a singular course.

LET THEM attend the problem locally, revert back to the situation as it was a year ago when they were elected. It's a tangled mess now because the first steps were never taken before the board members went on to the second steps. The promised impartial report was not given us before our board members had committed themselves to the proposition of building a new high school for the district; when Northwestern's survey reached us, the community was already bitterly split by the lack of impartiality shown by the district board. The voting of a bond issue to build a new high school is almost upon us — and we as a community have not taken the necessary steps of preparation for concerted effort.

The community will stand behind the present board members from Itasca, will follow them and co-operate towards realizing a new high school for the district if this proves to be the best plan and the will of the voters. But there is too much of a question in too many minds. As a result, the democratic principle of decision by election is now reduced to a survival of the fittest faction.

UNDER THE guidance of our present board members and with the help of the community, we still have time to go back and take the initial steps one by one towards a decision which will be representative of the majority. But it will be up to Messrs. Kalmus, Ward and Wolf to show their good faith by remaining impartial until they have brought all of Itasca, slowly and intelligently, to a united decision. Their business is not to support the proposition of District No. 108, nor were they elected for that purpose. They were elected to lead Itasca in discovering the best possible solution to the high school problem for Itasca. This is yet to be done.

Mrs. Robert A. Doyle,
Itasca.

Speed Still Biggest Cause Of Auto Deaths

The worst automobile accident toll in the nation's history—more than two million causualties—was recorded in 1953, according to figures released today by the Travelers insurance companies.

Traffic deaths totaled 38,500, an increase of 900 over 1952. The injury count rached 2,140,000 compared to 2,090,000 for the previous year.

Excessive speed was the most dangerous driving mistake in 1953.

Speed killed 13,870 persons and injured more than 600,000. Drivers under 25 years of age were involved in almost 25 per cent of the year's fatal accidents although they constitute only about 15 per cent of the total of all drivers.

Week end crashes accounted for 15,800 killed and 800,000 hurt during 1953. Forty-one per cent of the deaths and 36 per cent of the injuries occurred on Saturdays and Sundays last year.

The pedestrian record reflected the third consecutive year of improvement. Booklet figures show 50 to 8,600. Crossing btween intersections, "jay walking," still is the chief cause of pedestrian deaths and injuries.

Subdivisions

At the request of a reader we are publishing the following editorial which appeared in the Chicago Tribune May 8. It deals with the increased cost of our schools due to increased population.

Recently the county zoning commission and the Cook county board authorized a change in the zoning classification of 70 acres in Northfield township from farming to residential use. The action was taken over the protest of village and school authorities of Northbrook. It was held that since the area is 1½ miles outside their village and school district, they had no legal standing in the matter.

The Northbrook people asserted that the developer who sought the zoning change plans to construct about 200 small houses on the land, without a public sewer system and with a water system dependent on a well which they said was inadequate for fire protection.

They told the zoning commission that the rural school district in which the develpment is located maintains a school which is already crowded to capacity. It has no further legal bonding power for new construction two hundred new homes would provide 300 or more children of school age with no facilities for their schooling. Annual taxation on the houses will be no immediate help, since the buyers will occupy them for 18 months, on the average, before they pay any taxes.

County authorities were almost certainly right in holding that the Northbrook people had no legal standing in the case. School districts have no voice in zoning because authority in incorporated areas is vested in the municipality, not the school district. Nevertheless municipal and school officers in Northfield township are holding conferences to see what can be done about a community that, if formed, will be threatened with public bankruptcy from its beginning.

Schools normally take about 60 cents of every dollar of taxes collected in suburban Cook county. There are about 20 school districts in the county now that are in grave financial difficulties because their populations have grown so much faster than the taxable value of their real estate. They can't sell bonds to build the schools they need, and if they did, they couldn't collect enough taxes to run them. The legislature at its last session refused to bail out these districts and those in similar plight downstate, even tho the theory of the bill was that the districts would eventually pay back money advanced by a state agency.

It behooves the leaders of any rapidly growing suburban community to watch their step, lest they all into the financial ditch. Two things can be done. The first is to encourage the building of factories that will share the tax bills of home owners. The idea of a cozy dormitory suburb may be attractive, but it just won't pay off these days. There are perhaps a half dozen suburbs, mostly on the North Shore, with enough expensive—and sometimes unsalable—estates to get by with out real estate taxes on industry.

The second expedient is to use zoning and building codes to increase the average cost of new housing. Zoning regulations can't require that a new house cost a minimum sum, but the same effect can be attained indirectly. Northbrook village authorities got to worrying over the ratio between taxes and school population a couple of years ago. They required real estate developers to pave streets and install adequate sewers and water mains before they got building permits. That increased the cost of lots to the point where it was unprofitable to build cheap houses on them.

Attractions to industry and stimulation of the building of higher priced houses are the most practical ways of keeping school revenue in pace with the increase in school attendance. It can't be said, however, that the latter practice is altogether desirable socially.

A young couple moving to the suburbs, often primarily in the hope of finding better schools for their children, should not have to pay $25,000 for a home. Prefabricated dwellings are cheaper, and the better of them are satisfactory from the standpoint of fire protection, sanitation and durability. While various other excuses are offered, the real reason why so many suburbs refuse to issue permits for prefabs is that they produce too many school pupils and not enough taxes.

The foregoing is a diagnosis, offered without a cure. We don't know the cure, except perhaps that Chicago should be cleaned up and rental housing stimulated so that young families who can't really afford to own homes will not have to flee across the city limits.

Recently concern was expressed over potential suburban slums, growing in the areas in which big old houses can no longer find buyers and become rooming houses first and tenements later. The little houses being built without municipal utilities and in areas that are unable to collect enough taxes to pay for public services are in some instances going to become slums before the decrepit mansions do.

Keep It Coming

Please find enclosed my check for $4.00 for another year's subscription to the Roselle Register. We moved from Roselle in May of 1948, lived in Arkansas three years and moved back to my home town of Lakewood, Ohio three years ago. But I still must have my Register - we lived in Roselle six years.

Here is a suggestion. Why send all those ads to the out-of-town subscribers? We don't care what bargains the store in Bensenville or Arlington, for instance, have on sale. The paper is so heavy and so bulky. Why not keep the big sale sections out of the mail editions? The Tribune doesn't send the ads for the Chicago stores to the rest of the U.S. I don't know if it would lower your postage, but it sure is a waste of paper; and I usually let the papers pile up and read 3 or 4 at a time, so it makes such a stack to throw out.

You sure do have a fine paper.

Newsstand Of The Week

"Got Plenty?" in the lower left corner of the picture above could well refer to the Bensenville Registers on sale each Thursday at Wilkinson Pharmacy in Bensenville. The Register is one of the eight Paddock Publications sold on 58 newsstands throughout the area, numbering 7,000 copies over newsstands weekly.

Pictured with owner George F. Wilkinson is Mrs. Eleanor Goble, one of the persons helping him in the store. George graduated from the University of Illinois school of pharmacy, and was co-manager of Huerbinger's in Glenview before opening at Bensenville in August of 1952. He is married and the father of a three-year-old daughter.

Mr. Wilkinson believes in entering in local affairs. He is presently president of the Bensenville chamber of commerce and July 1 will begin his second term as treasurer of the Lions club. He is also a member of Tioga Post 2149 VFW.

Cecelia Schroeder

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our mother, Lillie Becker, who passed away May 12, 1953.
She did not fail to do her part.
Her heart was true and tender,
She worked hard for those she left
And will ever be remembered.
We watched her slowly fade away,
We could not keep her here,
With aching hearts we had to part
With one we loved so dear.
Loving husband and children

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Elma Meier, who passed away May 26, 1951.
Three years have passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away.
God took her home; it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
Husband and Children. (*

Enrollment Deadline For Korean GIs Near

Korean veterans separated from the service prior to August 20, 1952 must enroll in some type of GI training before August 20, 1954, in order to continue afterwards, Willard A. Manning, administrator of the Illinois veterans' commission said.

The deadline, however, comes before next fall's school term gets underway. Therefore, the summer session of the 1954 school term offers many veterans their last opportunity to commence training under the Korean GI bill.

Manning stated that veterans who left the service after August 20, 1952 need not concern themselves with the forthcoming 1954 cut-off date. Instead, they have two years from the date of their separation in which to begin GI training.

Under the law, a veteran must actually "enroll in and begin" training before his deadline, if he wants to go on with it afterwards. The mere filing of an application beforehand, is not enough, Manning pointed out.

Vote Reconsideration Of Route 62 Change Through Des Plaines

Des Plaines mayor Kenneth Meyer broke up a tie vote of aldermen on whether or not to reconsider the rerouting of Algonquin rd. to Oakton st. and the matter was held over for further study.

Lesson In English

by W. L. GORDON

Words Often Misused

Distinguish between "excite" (to produce agitation) and "incite" (to drive on to a particular end). "Excite" is usually used of arousing the feelings, as, "The book excited interest in a national problem." "The speaker incited the mob to set fire to the building."

Do not say, "It's the same identical one." "Same" and "identical" are synonyms. Use one or the other, never both.

Do not say, "The price reduction is retroactive with May 1st." Say, "retroactive to May 1st."

Do not say, "We live a few miles off of the highway." Omit "of," or say, "from the highway."

Do not say, "We expect lots more business very soon." It is much better to say, "we expect much more business."

Do not say, "We are not going any place today." It is better to say, "We are not going anywhere today."

Words Often Mispronounced

Parquet. Pronounce par-ka, first a as in park, second a as in cake, accent second syllable.

Epitome. Pronounce e-pit-o-me, both e's as in me unstressed, i as in pit. o as in no, accent second syllable.

Gala. Pronounce first a as in gay, not as in pal.

Placebo (medicine of no value given to please a patient). Pronounce pla-se-bo, a unstressed, e as in see, o as in bone, accent second syllable.

Fortuitous. Pronounce for-tu-itus, o as in for, first u as in use, i as in it unstressed, accent second syllable.

Parliament. Pronounce par-liment, and not par-li-a-ment.

Words Often Misspelled

Blond (noun), masculine; blonde, feminine. Pantomime; mime, not mine. Mediocre; observe the cre, not cer. Meat (food); meet (to come in contact with); mete (to allot). Presumptuous; observe the ptu. Homely (of plain or coarse features); homily (a discourse or sermon).

Word Study

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Intervention; any interference that may affect the interests of others. "We should decide our own quarrels without the intervention of others."

Execration; a curse uttered. (Pronounce eks-e-cra-shun, a as in crate, accent third syllable). "The air was filled with execrations."

Hypercritical; over c r i t i c a l. (Pronounce first syllable high). "His remarks were hypercritical."

Atrocious; savagely brutal; outrageously cruel or wicked. "The invaders committed some atrocious crimes on the citizens."

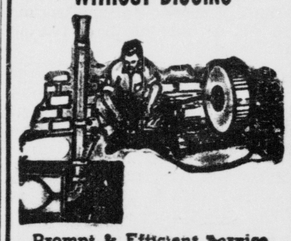

Centenarian; a person a hundred years old. (Pronounce first a as in care, principal accent follows the r).

Finesse; a delicate skill; artifice; stratagem. (Pronounce fines, i as in fin, e as in less, accent second syllable). "His speech was a masterpiece of diplomatic finesse."

"Food for Life" — a dramatic presentation of the role of right eating in our daily lives — is the title of a new extensive exhibit to be opened at Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry in June.
